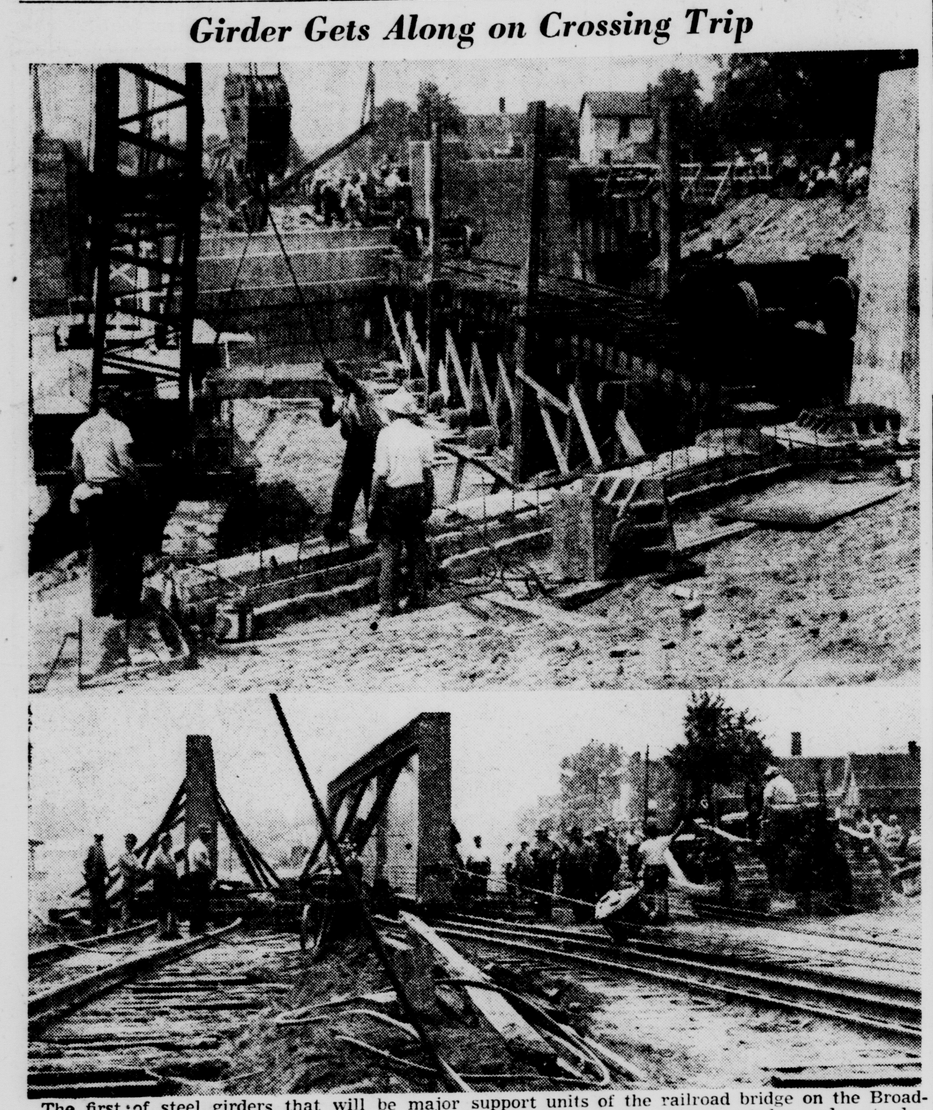
Iran's Premier Sends Plea To Truman on Nation's Oil

Girder Gets Along on Crossing Trip



The first of steel girders that will be major support units of the railroad bridge on the Broadway crossing project moved slowly toward its permanent place in the structure today and yesterday as crowds of "sidewalk superintendents" watched the engineering feat. The 76-ton girder, which is 97 feet long was moved up by the railroad trucks yesterday and at 1 p. m. today it was 20 feet out on its slow journey to the other side on the trucks. Shown here are the temporary wooden bridge and the railroad trucks, and below is the girder on its way with the aid of a bulldozer and heavy cable. It was expected that the girder would complete the full trip by the end of working hours today. (Freeman Photos)

US Control Program Is In Danger

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The House Banking Committee voted 21 to 3 today for a 31-day extention of the present Price Control Act.

The idea is to give Congress more time to consider a new, revised law. Without Congressional action to keep it alive, the present law will expire Saturday midnight.

Influential Senators are fighting any such "stop-gap" move and there appears to be danger the Saturday deadline may arrive without a new law or any action to retain the old one.

Collapse Feared

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The entire economics controls program, under which the government aims to halter prices, wages and rents, appeared today in imminent danger of collapse, victim of an argument between House and Senate.

Unless the two chambers can square their views and pass a new law—or extend the old one—by Saturday night, the Defense Production Act which authorizes the controls will die.

The Senate today drove toward a vote by nightfall on a new measure which would sharply limit price control powers. But the House moved at a more leisurely pace as its leaders agreed to a simple 31-day "stop-gap" extension of the old measure to give them time to work out a long-term law.

That was the cause of the divergence of views between the two chambers. Senator Maybank (D.-S.C.) announced in the Senate last night that "several of us intend to talk and talk and talk" to kill any move for a stop-gap continuance.

Might Bring Filibuster

Such talk might easily turn into a filibuster and thus end any chance of final Senate action before the present law expires. And even if the Senate should pass a new controls bill of its own, it still would be hamstrung by the House's stop-gap plan.

In the meantime, there would be no legal basis for any of the controls the government insists are essential for preventing inflation.

The House did not even consider the controls bill officially yesterday, as its Democratic and Republican leaders got together on the one-month extension plan.

The Senate, in a session that ran well into the night, rejected a move to knock out of its bill a drastic limitation on the government's authority to roll back the prices of meat and other items.

Provision Adopted

By a 61 to 26 rollcall vote, the senators adopted a provision forbidding price rollbacks to levels lower than those which prevailed between last Jan. 25 and Feb. 24. Twenty-five Democrats and 36 Republicans voted to retain the provision, sponsored by Maybank. Twenty-one Democrats and five Republicans opposed it.

The law now allows rollbacks to the "pre-Korea" level of May to June, 1950. This is the basis for the now-effective 10 per cent beef price rollback and orders for two additional price cuts of a 4½ per cent each on Aug. 1 and Oct. 1.

The Senate bill would let the 10 per cent beef rollback stand, but allow only a two per cent additional cut. It also would upset orders already issued by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) for rollbacks in the prices of shoes, clothing and a long list of manufactured goods.

The senators rejected, 49 to 39, a move by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, to make the rollback restriction still more drastic.

Would Keep Fuel Going On Its Way

No Indication Is Given That Iran Has Asked President to Mediate Quarrel

British Blamed

Newspaper Expresses Its Nation's Hope to Keep Oil Flowing

Tehran, Iran, June 28 (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh sent an urgent personal message to President Truman today. Informed sources said it expressed a desire to keep Iran's oil flowing to the west.

These sources said the message, sent after a late night cabinet session, showed no hint of compromising the bitter dispute between Iran and Britain over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian oil company's holdings. Fears are being expressed that the crisis is near the explosion stage.

There was no indication of whether the message asked President Truman to mediate the quarrel.

The White House in Washington received word from Ambassador Henry F. Grady shortly before 9 a. m. (EST) that he had received a message from the Iranian premier and was transmitting it to the U. S. capital.

It was plain that government circles were concerned over the threat of mass resignations by the AIOC's 2,800 British employes, should the British managers and technicians pull out, the billion-dollar oil industry here would, in all probability, have to close down.

Appeals For Arrangement

The statement yesterday by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson appealing for a stop-gap arrangement which would let the British employes stay in Iran to keep the oil moving was believed to have had an effect on Iranian officials.

U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady was handed the message for Truman by Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi in a brief meeting.

The middle-of-the-road newspaper Atesh said the message expressed Iran's desire to keep the oil flowing but blamed the British for mass resignations which might stop it.

India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru also messaged Mossadegh urging a policy of moderation in the interests of world peace. Mossadegh has nationalized Iran's oil and is determined to drive the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company which has run it for 50 years, out of the country.

Would Shut Down

Should the British managers and technicians pull out, the billion dollar oil industry here would, in all probability, have to shut down. Western Europe's defense is largely fueled by Iranian oil.

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company reportedly expects word from London, perhaps today, to send its remaining 2800 British employes home and shut down. Women and children have all gone and the British cruiser Mauritius was ordered to stand by off the oil port of Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, to cover evacuation of the men. It will also guard against disorders.

Plans already laid, reportedly contemplate getting them out in 72 hours whenever the signal is given.

Protests to Iraq

Iran formally protested to Iraq today against the presence of the Mauritius in Iraqi river waters. The government radio said Iraqi Charge D'Affaires Ebrahim Fazli had been summoned to the foreign office and handed a note protesting the cruiser's presence and also what the broadcast called a "concentration of British troops" in Iraq.

The protest, which also will be delivered by the Iranian ambassador in Iraq, said the presence of the cruiser in the Shattel Arab river separating Iran and Iraq, was a violation of the friendship agreement between the two countries.

AIOC's tough young field boss, A. E. C. Drake, has spent the past two days in Basra, across the frontier in Iraq, on the advice of British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd. Shepherd said

UN Secretary General Also Talks With Various Other Delegates

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The State Department announced today that Russia has proposed the United Nations, North Korean and Red Chinese commanders negotiate a Korean armistice.

The Soviet Union suggested armistice terms limited "to strictly military questions."

The proposal was made yesterday to Ambassador Alan G. Kirk by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko in Moscow.

Gromyko, the department said, "indicated that it would be for the military representatives of the unified command and of the Korean republic command on the one hand and the military representatives of the North Korean command and of the "Chinese volunteer units" on the other to negotiate the armistice envisaged in Mr. Malik's statement."

Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, put forward the original cease-fire suggestion in a speech Saturday.

United Nations, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—Associates of Trygve Lie said today the UN secretary general is encouraged on the basis of talks he has held so far about the Russian proposal for cease-fire talks.

Americans Are Encouraged Over Russian Response

Washington, June 28 (AP) — American officials were described as mildly encouraged today over Russia's response to the first American request for clarification of Jacob A. Malik's cease-fire suggestion.

But authoritative informants said detailed and perhaps prolonged exploratory talks will be necessary before it can definitely be known whether there is real basis for hope of an early end to the Korean war.

It was understood that on the possibility—however slight—that an arrangement containing adequate guarantees against truce violations can be worked out, government agencies were readying stand-by plans for action in event an armistice is established.

Balanced against this is the impression among diplomats here that any chances of an immediate cease-fire are dimmed by the need for further clarification of the Soviet and Chinese attitudes.

Some authorities feel it is not yet clear whether the Chinese Reds would insist on conditions unacceptable to the west—membership in the United Nations and control of Formosa, for example. Malik, chief Russian delegate to the U.N., did not attach such conditions to his suggestion for a cease-fire in a radio talk Saturday.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was reported by officials who may not be named to have told U. S. Ambassador Alan Kirk in Moscow yesterday that Malik contemplated field negotiations between the North

Fake Letters Mailed

Columbus, O., June 28 (AP)—Fake letters poking fun at or criticizing civil defense have been mailed in great numbers in Columbus, Detroit, Cleveland and New York, a Columbus civil defense official said today. George Arnold, executive administrator for civil defense in Columbus, said Columbus, Ohio and federal officials are investigating. Columbus authorities said the letters are more than a practical joke. Considerable money is being spent, they said.

Admitted to Hospital

John Shurter, 74, of 12 St. James street, was admitted to Kingston Hospital early today for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall. Police were notified at 12:26 a. m. that he had apparently been injured in a fall. His condition was reported as "fairly good" this afternoon.

3 Billions More In Taxes Asked

Individual Income, Excise Levies Would Be Affected

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The Truman administration today asked the Senate to add about $3,000,000,000 more to the House-approved boost in individual income and excise (sales) taxes.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder told the Senate Finance Committee the $7,200,000,000 tax hike voted by the House is insufficient, because it threatens to put the government in the red and add to inflationary pressures.

Congress, he insisted, should provide at least the roughly $10,000,000,000 in extra taxes asked by President Truman originally—and should aim chiefly at individual income and excise taxes for the $3,000,000,000 addition to the House tax bill.

The House measure would raise individual income taxes by 12½ per cent to provide an extra $2,847,000,000 in yearly revenues. Excise taxes on gasoline, tobacco and many other items would be boosted by varying amounts to bring in $1,252,000,000 more annually.

Is Leadoff Witness

Snyder was the leadoff witness as the Senate committee opened hearings on higher taxes, using the House bill as the cornerstone of its deliberations.

The tax increases in the House bill aggregate . . . roughly $3,000,000,000 less than the $10,000,000,000 tax legislation goal set by the President for this year," Snyder said in a prepared statement. "The net yield of the bill is about $7,000,000,000. . . .

"The increases in the House bill required to meet the President's program can be obtained from two general areas, selective excises and the individual income tax."

Snyder also repeated a demand for a tougher capital gains tax—the levy on profit from property sales—and a tightening of "loopholes" in the tax system, partly by reducing tax-reducing privileges of the oil and coal industries and by stiffening rules on taxing family partnership set-ups.

Police were notified yesterday by Joseph Steffanson, of Woodstock, that tools valued at $75 were taken from his car while it was parked either at the Montgomery Ward parking ground or the A. & P. lot uptown.

Van Buren Test Put Over to July 6

Civil Action Is Opened to Recover Machines Seized in Raid

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn appeared for Police Chief Raymond Van Buren before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today in the opening of the civil action aaginst the chief to reclaim three adding machines taken from 48 Chambers street last April 14 in a police raid.

The action is brought by Joseph Weiss, of Elmendorf street, who had no connection with the raid which resulted in the arrest of five men on charges relating to bookmaking and policy. He is a relative of one of the defendants who paid fines on the charges.

Judge Mino today put the case over to July 6 to allow District Attorney Bruhn to present amended answers to the plaintiff's case as presented by Attorney Elmor Nathan.

Allows Amendments

The judge allowed Nathan to amend his case in paragraphs dealing with serial numbers of the adding machines and to insert the word "wrongfully" in paragraphs dealing with the seizure of the machines which have a total value of approximately $600.

The amendments were granted on the condition that the defendant's counsel be allowed a week to present his amended answers.

It was indicated that the district attorney is sxpected to ask for a jury trial, but he said today that he was not sure that he would be in a position to ask for a trial next week.

Consents to Change

District Attorney Bruhn at first objected to Nathan's amendments because they might mean a "new course of action" in pre-

Van Fleet Warns Attacks Might Indicate Drive

Tokyo, June 28 (AP)—Thundering allied artillery today smashed a series of Chinese attacks which Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet warned may be forerunners of a new Red offensive in Korea.

The United Nations ground commander foresaw no "major thrust immediately." But, he said on a tour of the fighting fronts, "the Chinese appear to be building up for another effort" to overrun U.N. lines.

Neither Van Fleet nor the Supreme Allied Headquarters of Gen. Matthew B. Ridway would discuss a Russian cease fire proposal.

Van Fleet said he knew nothing about it.

"Of course, in our hearts, we all want peace," Van Fleet said. "But we won't let up on the enemy."

Daily Worker Is Circularizing City

Local police revealed today they have been receiving reports of an apparent extensive mailing of "Daily Worker" circulars in the city.

One letter at police headquarters today contained a circular which had editorial columns "reprinted from The Daily Worker, 50 East 13th street, New York."

The circular suggested that anyone wishing a free copy of the Communist paper should write to its home office. The sample editorial struck at the Smith Act which resulted in the recent conviction of 11 Communists as persons who sought to overthrow the U.S. government.

Russell Says Sentiment Opposes Report on General

Washington, June 28 (AP)—Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) today reported "surprising sentiment" against a Senate committee making any formal report on its inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Russell, the committee chairman, said the sentiment appears to be increasing among members of the investigation panel—mainly, he indicated, because of apparent slim chances for achieving any unanimity on the issues.

The Georgia seator made the statement after winning bi-partisan approval in the committee of a statement telling Russia and the other Communist nations that—despite the bitter controversy over dismissal of MacArthur—America stands "United in readiness" to defend itself against any Red aggression.

The inquiry group, made up of the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees, approved the statement by voice vote yesterday. Russell said there were no dissents from any of the members present at the closed meeting. He spoke of it as a unanimous action.

Russell had described the statement in advance as a warning to Russia against judging the hot dispute over ousting of MacArthur as a sign of U. S. division and weakness.

A section of the statement addressed to "the Communist world" declared that "even as the free world has no reason for dismay, neither should the Communist

By a 61 to 26 rollcall vote, the senators adopted a provision forbidding price rollbacks to levels lower than those which prevailed between last Jan. 25 and Feb. 24. Twenty-five Democrats and 36 Republicans voted to retain the provision, sponsored by Maybank. Twenty-one Democrats and five Republicans opposed it.

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The Truman administration today asked the Senate to add about $3,000,000,000 more to the House-approved boost in individual income and excise (sales) taxes.

The session is scheduled for 11 a. m. in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium to nominate candidates for county clerk and coroner. There will be a broadcast starting at noon.

Outstanding Orator

Assemblyman Wilson, who represents the First Assembly District, is regarded as one of the outstanding orators in the state Legislature, and a close friend of Senator Wicks, majority leader of the Senate.

In private life he practices law and is a member of the firm of Kent, Hazzard, Jaeger & Wilson of White Plains.

During World War 2 he served as an ensign in command of a navy gun crew on munition ships in the European and Mediterranean theatres.

Assemblyman Wilson began serving in the Legislature on January 1, 1939 and has been in Albany ever since, serving on important committees.

He is chairman of the codes committee and a member of pensions, public printing and labor and industries committee a member of law revision commission and Judicial Council of the State of New York; chairman of joint legislative committee on municipal finance.

UN Secretary General Also Talks With Various Other Delegates

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The State Department announced today that Russia has proposed the United Nations, North Korean and Red Chinese commanders negotiate a Korean armistice.

The Soviet Union suggested armistice terms limited "to strictly military questions."

The proposal was made yesterday to Ambassador Alan G. Kirk by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko in Moscow.

Gromyko, the department said, "indicated that it would be for the military representatives of the unified command and of the Korean republic command on the one hand and the military representatives of the North Korean command and of the "Chinese volunteer units" on the other to negotiate the armistice envisaged in Mr. Malik's statement."

Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, put forward the original cease-fire suggestion in a speech Saturday.

Seems Encouraged

United Nations, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—Associates of Trygve Lie said today the UN secretary general is encouraged on the basis of talks he has held so far about the Russian proposal for cease-fire talks.

These associates pictured Lie as feeling the discussions were moving in the right direction. Lie

Robert Luedtke Is Student Holding AttendanceRecord

Other Pupils Listed for Perfect Score in Attendance at School

Robert Luedtke, a student at Kingston High School, holds the record for perfect attendance in the Kingston school system. He has a perfect attendance record for nine years. During that time he has been neither absent nor tardy.

With a record of eight years of perfect attendance next comes John J. Smith, also a high school student. Two pupils have records of seven years of perfect attendance, they being Joyce McAdoo of School No. 4, and Ernest Smith of the M.J.M. School. Theron Snyder of the high school has a record of six years.

Four have a five year record, they being David Eighmey at No. 5, Ann Ewing at No. 6, and Walter Colclough and John Thurin at the M.J.M. School. The five students with a four year record are: Marjorie Ellsworth, No. 2, H. Phillips Eighmey at No. 5, Webster Henderson at the MJM School and Robert Baumer and Beatrice Newkirk at the high school. The 10 students with three-year records are: Charles Williams, No. 3, David Smith and Patricia Thurin of No. 8, Gertrude and Juanita Peterson of the MJM School and Mary Albrecht, Norman Cody, Joseph Colclough, David Lasher and Sarah Moore of the high school.

262 Perfect Records

During the past year there were 262 students in the Kingston school system with perfect records, 198 of them with a year of perfect attendance, 40 with two years, 10 with three years,

Americans Are Encouraged Over Russian Response

Washington, June 28 (AP) — American officials were described as mildly encouraged today over Russia's response to the first American request for clarification of Jacob A. Malik's cease-fire suggestion.

But authoritative informants said detailed and perhaps prolonged exploratory talks will be necessary before it can definitely be known whether there is real basis for hope of an early end to the Korean war.

It was understood that on the possibility—however slight—that an arrangement containing adequate guarantees against truce violations can be worked out, government agencies were readying stand-by plans for action in event an armistice is established.

Balanced against this is the impression among diplomats here that any chances of an immediate cease-fire are dimmed by the need for further clarification of the Soviet and Chinese attitudes.

Some authorities feel it is not yet clear whether the Chinese Reds would insist on conditions unacceptable to the west—membership in the United Nations and control of Formosa, for example. Malik, chief Russian delegate to the U.N., did not attach such conditions to his suggestion for a cease-fire in a radio talk Saturday.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was reported by officials who may not be named to have told U. S. Ambassador Alan Kirk in Moscow yesterday that Malik contemplated field negotiations between the North

Fake Letters Mailed

Columbus, O., June 28 (AP)—Fake letters poking fun at or criticizing civil defense have been mailed in great numbers in Columbus, Detroit, Cleveland and New York, a Columbus civil defense official said today. George Arnold, executive administrator for civil defense in Columbus, said Columbus, Ohio and federal officials are investigating. Columbus authorities said the letters are more than a practical joke. Considerable money is being spent, they said.

Admitted to Hospital

John Shurter, 74, of 12 St. James street, was admitted to Kingston Hospital early today for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall. Police were notified at 12:26 a. m. that he had apparently been injured in a fall. His condition was reported as "fairly good" this afternoon.

Reports Tools Stolen

Police were notified yesterday by Joseph Steffanson, of Woodstock, that tools valued at $75 were taken from his car while it was parked either at the Montgomery Ward parking ground or the A. & P. lot uptown.

Russell Says Sentiment Opposes Report on General

Washington, June 28 (AP)—Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) today reported "surprising sentiment" against a Senate committee making any formal report on its inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Russell, the committee chairman, said the sentiment appears to be increasing among members of the investigation panel—mainly, he indicated, because of apparent slim chances for achieving any unanimity on the issues.

The Georgia seator made the statement after winning bi-partisan approval in the committee of a statement telling Russia and the other Communist nations that—despite the bitter controversy over dismissal of MacArthur—America stands "United in readiness" to defend itself against any Red aggression.

The inquiry group, made up of the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees, approved the statement by voice vote yesterday. Russell said there were no dissents from any of the members present at the closed meeting. He spoke of it as a unanimous action.

Russell had described the statement in advance as a warning to Russia against judging the hot dispute over ousting of MacArthur as a sign of U. S. division and weakness.

A section of the statement addressed to "the Communist world" declared that "even as the free world has no reason for dismay, neither should the Communist

Desmond Favors Use of Experts

Albany, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—State Senator Thomas C. Desmond proposed today that big business personnel experts be given a voice in developing personnel practices in state and local civil service systems.

The Newburgh Republican said he would introduce a bill at the 1952 session of the Legislature to create a seven-member advisory management committee in the State Civil Service Department.

Desmond said in a statement:

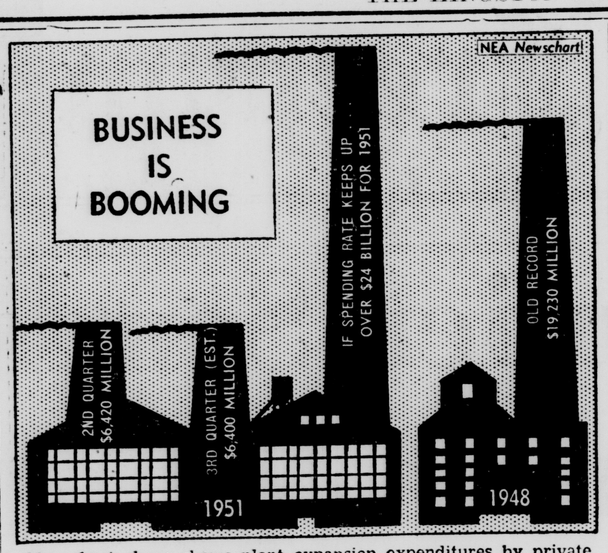
"The personnel practices of our state and local Civil Service Commissions are second-rate compared with those of large companies such as Eastman Kodak, New York Telephone, Socony Vacuum and other companies.

"Personnel managers of such companies, appointed to the advisory management committee, could be, enormously helpful."

Desmond said New York's billion-dollar-year government used some personnel techniques which "do not produce as good results as those of a corner grocery store."

"Civil Service," he added, "suffers not only from political control but from a cult of in-bred public administration theorists, well-meaning students of government who went into government work upon graduation from college without the broadening experience of business training."

He contended that Civil Service Commissioners on state and local levels "are far too often selected for political reason rather than reasons of personal merit."



Newschart above shows plant expansion expenditures by private commercial and industrial firms in 1951's second quarter (ended June 30), according to federal statistics. If businessmen keep expanding at present rate they will probably, as the chart indicates, spend about five billion dollars more for expansion than in the record year 1948.

Empire Super Markets Open Two More Stores

Continuing its expansion program, the Empire Super Markets has completed negotiations for the opening of two large units in Schenectady, it has been announced by Henry Schaffer, president of the company. The locations in that city are at the corners of State and Sanford streets and Van Vranken avenue and Seneca street, respectively. These will bring the total to 44 Empire Super Markets in the company's chain in the eastern New York state area. The Empire Super Market in Kingston is located at 61 Albany avenue.

Cadet Tests Set For Guardsmen

Albany, June 28—Designating examinations for appointment as cadets in the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, will be conducted July 2, at Pine Camp, and Fort Jay, Governors Lsland, for members of the New York National Guard and New York Air National Guard, Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, chief of staff to Governor Dewey and commanding general, New York National Guard, announced today.

Applications have been received from seven New York national guardsmen and air guardsmen to take the designating examinations, General Hausauer reported. It is expected that a number of additional applications will be received before June 30, deadline for applicants for this year's examinations.

The Guardsmen and Air Guardsmen on active federal service, if successful in passing the designating examinations, will be ordered to the U. S. Military Academy preparatory school at Stewart Air Force Base, near Newburgh, to prepare for the qualifying examinations scheduled in March.

Of the 48 cadet appointments allotted to guard and reserve components in the United States, New York National Guardsmen won four places, General Hausauer said.

HOMES FOR HAITIANS — For the first time in the colorful history of the western hemisphere's only French-speaking republic, low-cost housing is being built for Haiti's "little man." The first "Workers' City" is nearing completion at Port-au-Prince, where these workers are seen building one of the new homes. A widespread social and economic reform program of President Paul Magliore calls for 15 low-cost housing projects throughout the island at a cost of about $564,000

Dividend Is Declared

London, June 28 (AP)—The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, whose properties in Iran are being seized under a new Iranian nationalization law, declared a dividend of 25 per cent today. This brings dividends for the company's fiscal year to 30 per cent, the same as in the preceding 12 months.

Indictment Dismissed

Washington, June 28 (AP)—An indictment against James V. Hunt, a key figure in the Senate "five percenter" inquiry, has been dismissed. U. S. District Judge Richmond B. Keech took the action yesterday after receiving medical opinion that Hunt is too ill to stand trial. Hunt was indicted on charges of agreeing to receive compensation from three private firms for representing them before the War Assets Administration while he was employed as a WAA consultant in 1946. Hunt figured in the investigation of "five percenters" . . . persons who accept a fee for helping to negotiate government contracts.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It is interesting, if not always profitable, to speculate upon the Russiar psychological strategy.

Malik's bid for a cease-fire agreement in Korea is a case in point. Coming as it did — when rumors had been thick that the United Nations were about to make new peace proposals—the Malik radio speech, ending in a suggestion for a truce, caught the world by surprise and held every nation at skeptical attenion.

What lies behind the proposal? Certainly, it cannot be merely the fact that Stalin would like to save the Red Chinese from further defeats. It is not likely that Stalin cares very much one way or the other about Chinese casualties.

But it does seem likely that Stalin has been, and is, giving much careful thought to what would happen to Russia in the event a total war were to break out. It seems to the Ruminator that Russia may very well be even more afraid of a third world war than we appear to be in our public pronouncements and official propaganda.

A Russian truce proposal, if carried out, could have many reactions—like a chain of firecrackers going off.

It is no secret, for example, in reports from abroad that General Eisenhower is undergoing great difficulties in organizing his forces under the "Atlantic Powers." He has been frustrated in one country after another. As one report states, "his command is still essentially a phantom army."

Nothing would please the Kremlin more, obviously, than to have the North Atlantic Alliance fail in its objective of providing a strong European defensive force. A truce or armistice in Korea would unquestionably, it would seem, slow down even further the organization Eisenhower is striving to put together.

Over on this side, the interwoven problems of war production, economic controls, and taxes, are at this moment in a stalemate as the Congress debates all around the questions. A cease-fire agreement in Korea would here also unquestionably tend to slow down our defense and economic programs.

In the light of the influence that might arise from a Russian decision to call off the war in Korea—and considering the tone of the Malik proposal (without the customary strings attached) and the fact the speech was given full publicity in Russia—it is a fair assumption to guess the proposal is not a fake. (It probably should be inserted that you may have confirmation one way or the other before this appears in print)

There would not be much purpose in making a fake proposal, because there would be little surprise or strategy in a bluff at this stage of proceedings. The surprise, as I see it, will arise from the Malik proposal being valid. Everyone is skeptical as this is written; except that Great Britain appears optimistic. Thus, from a contrary viewpoint, we might ruminate over the foregoing and other repercussions, that will accrue in the event the Korean war is ended.

Those who see any truce at the 38th Parallel as a "defeat" will urge that we do not accept such an armistice. However, the United Nations will of course accept such an arrangement as a safe way out of a dangerous situation.

The MacArthurites will have the satisfaction of believing the general was right when he stated that he did not believe that his policies would necessarily draw Russia into the war. Russia would not be proposing a truce if she had had intentions of entering the conflict. Moreover, the MacArthur strategy might have won a better decision than calling it quits at the 38th. Arguments will run on for months.

From a financial viewpoint, we shall see developments mirrored in our markets.

Commodity markets have been in a downtrend since mid-February, and any cessation of Korean hostilities would doubtless give the futures' markets another downward push. Indeed, the Malik proposal itself will probably induce considerable selling of commodities. War is a greater bullish influence on commodities than crop news. But, as it happens, crop news is extremely optimistic at the moment, so futures are prone to be weak on this score also.

The stock market may spill, too, on the news of an armistice, if it occurs. However, one should keep in mind that peace is more bullish than war over the long trends and it may well be that the very general bearish opinions that presently prevail will prove wrong in the long future, even if right for the near term.

COACH FARE FOR AIRLINES

Heartening signs have developed recently of a widening trend toward use of air coach or tourist reduced-fare service by the commercial airlines.

American Airlines, which led the way with fast DC-6 daylight air coach operations last year, has added another coast-to-coast flight by an alternate route. The original run is reported a substantial success.

Other domestic lines can offer similar testimony. Since coach operations became common in late 1949, the carriers have picked up extra revenue without apparent harm to their regular full-fare trade.

To illustrate, coach service brought the domestic companies $43,000,000 in 1950, as against only $9,600,000 in 1949. But first-class passenger revenues didn't suffer correspondingly. They rose $14,550,000 to a total of $347,000,000 in 1950 as compared with 1949.

All coach service is under temporary authorization from the Civil Aeronautics Board, which viewed it originally as an experiment and has not yet revised its official attitude. The idea was to test the service to see whether it would tap a wholly new market, as some lines claimed, or whether it would simply subtract business from the full-fare service.

None of the lines would contend that air coach revenues are all pure gain. But those employing the service believe most of the return represents new customers who otherwise wouldn't travel. They think air coach is here to stay.

In the overseas field, Pan American World Airways has been urging since 1948 that tourist fares be applied to the rich trans-Atlantic route. Like the domestic lines, Pan American argued that lower fares would broaden the base of the air travel market and more than compensate the overseas carriers through increased volume.

The Economic Cooperation Administration supported this contention, recommending tourist rates as a means by which dollar-hungry European countries could earn more dollars.

The CAB, opposed for some time to extension of the coach-fare plan to overseas lines, changed its mind this spring.

Last month at Bermuda, at a meeting of the International Air Transport Association representing major international carriers, Pan Am's tourist service plan, urged also by Belgium's Sabena Airlines, was at length adopted.

Some foreign lines are skeptical of the economics of lower fares, however, and their opposition was still felt at Bermuda. To obtain unanimous agreement on the cheaper service, it was necessary to put off its effective date 18 months, beyond the end of the 1952 summer season.

MISDIRECTION

Stage magicians frequently use a smooth line of talk and rapid movements to draw the attention of the audience away from what is really happening. This technique of misdirection is a favorite of diplomats and politicians as well.

Diplomats frequently disguise their actual aims by discussing publicly matters of little importance. Politicians try to protect their own record from examination by attacks on their opponents. Only by keeping their eyes open and being certain of what the real issues are can people keep from being duped. The hand is quicker than the eye only when the eye wanders.

DETECTING RAIN

Will radar come to the rescue of the harassed weatherman and the embarrassed picnicker? A private weather consultant in St. Louis has been granted a permit to experiment with radar for the detection of rain clouds and the charting of their movements.

Radar, first developed to detect the approach of hostile aircraft while still beyond the range of sight and sound, has proved to be remarkably useful for helping commercial planes to fly and land safely, helping ships to find their way through fog and storm, and even for trapping speeders on the highways. Yet none of these accomplishments would compare, in the mind of the common man, with certain warning of the coming of rain.

If this thing works, if radar can enable man to set out with assurance on an enterprise which could be ruined by unexpected rain, then man may be forgiven if he wonders what new fields remain to be conquered.

'These Days'

LIFE IS FRAGILE

We are so sure, so positive, so full of ourselves. Then something happens to bring us close to the knowledge of how fragile we are, how fragile life itself is. I recall when Winston Churchill was knocked down on Fifth Avenue, how Fritz Kreisler was knocked down by a truck. Churchill lived to lead his country through blood, sweat and tears. Kreisler has been spared for a world that loves him.

These thoughts came to me as for a moment it seemed as though all of us, nearly an entire family, in the best of cheer, off on a summer holiday, faced the immediate possibility of sudden death. It does not take more than a split second to discover humility—and thankfulness to a gracious God.

Our car was standing stark still on an approach to the West Side Highway, not more than five minutes from home. We were moving from the big city to a farm I have in Massachusetts. All winter we look forward to the day when we shall make our annual return to the woods and a few weeks of closeness to nature. We were waiting to get into the line of traffic.

Then came, at a terrific rush, a policeman on a motorcycle. He apparently was after a speeder or something. Suddenly we felt the impact of his machine into our car. He fell over his machine. To us, it seemed as though he had flown into the air and soon enough, too soon, we heard his groans. We only suffered damage to our car, but we suffered emotionally with him. It might have been us.

For hours we waited. And it was impossible not to think of how the courtesy of the road seems to have disappeared altogether. Few drivers put their hands out to signal changes of destination or slowing up. Few ever think of warning the car behind them of sudden stops. On country roads at night, it is not rare to see bright lights undimmed for passing cars even though a collision might result from such negligence.

But the worst offenders seem to be gabby folk who hold conferences while driving and lovers who believe the closeness makes the road more safe.

One becames more conscious of these infractions after a first accident. If there had been no speeder, the motorcycle policeman would not so suddenly have taken to the chase and none of this might have happened, imperilling his life and almost ending ours. Perhaps after the speeder reaches his destination, there was nothing to get there for. Yet, there could have been a half dozen deaths because he did not follow the rules of the road.

It is not only the rules of the road that we so often ignore; it is the rules of life itself. For there are rules which the whole experience of the human race, at whatever level of culture, does accept. The Senate committee which is now meeting to consider ethics in government faces the same problem that we did in our collision; it is not so much the law as it is decency, which comes down to the simplicities of the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule and such aphoristic statements of right.

The simple rules of life suffice when all the complexities of laws and regulations do not. Most men do not commit murder because they fear the law. Probably when a man shoots an adulterous wife, he never thinks of the law. His emotions are vengeful; he does not think at all and all the laws on all the books from Hammurabi to Fulbright will not check his hand, unless deeply ground into his character is the simple statement: "Those shalt not kill."

That command originated not from legislation or personal decision. It reaches him from outside himself, from God, not as a request or a suggestion, not with explanations or reasons—but as a direct statement of what is expected of him. Vengeance is the Lord's, not man's. The transference is important, for it withdraws from us altogether many of the emotional reactions which lead to indecencies, improprieties, wrongs. If we reject the commandments, we imperil not only ourselves, but all men.

Analyzing the various criticisms of the American government and even American life of our day, it would seem that most of our social illnesses, attributable to what is so lightly called "modern," "up-to-date," "progress," really are bad manners and degraded morals.

AIDES TO MENTALLY BACKWARD

Several years ago I wrote about a new occupation that challenges strong men and women who wish to devote their lives to helping the unfortunate patients in state and mental hospitals. Aside from providing a living, this work is of great interest, as those engaged in it are rewarded by the progress of the mentally retarded children and adults in their care.

The movement to enroll mental aides is sponsored by the National Association for Mental Health. Today thousands of aides are engaged in this work and a competition to find and reward the most outstanding aides is held yearly throughout the United States. The purpose of making these awards is to focus public attention on the needs of the 1,500,000 mentally retarded people and to recognize the efforts of progressive aides in institutions for the mentally retarded who, in enlightened day-to-day work with their patients, are helping to improve the quality of the care and training throughout the country.

Retarded mental development is essentially similar, as far as body processes are concerned, to arrested or retarded physical growth. Children mature normally to a certain age, then cease to mature any further. There is no set age at which maturity stops in all cases precisely as not all normal or adult intelligences are equal. Despite this, each retarded individual can be helped through specialized and sympathetic care and training to make some use of his capacities and with skilled friendly supervision become a working member of the community.

Retardation may be the result of injury or disease before or after birth or may be the outcome of factors which future study may reveal.

The winner of the highest award was Miss Eileen Bunyan Monson State Hospital, Palmer, Mass., who came to this hospital five years ago and found a group of children who lived secluded lives, fought frequently, had slovenly habits, and had to be locked indoors. With the aid of the staff she organized outdoor games for these children, accompanied them on hikes, organized troops of Boy and Girl Scouts. The children gradually began to help about the grounds and the cooking in the kitchen and formed a Glee Club. The doors of the institution were kept open permanently.

The Same Kind of Joy Water He Bought in 1948

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—While making a survey of Europe last winter several top diplomats expressed the following idea about peace or war with Soviet Russia:

"The worst blunder Moscow ever made was to invade Korea. It created unity among the United Nations. It aroused the American people; and it put your mobilization program in high gear.

"And the smartest thing the Kremlin could do now," these diplomats continued, "would be to make a dramatic peace bid. It would throw discord into the United Nations. It would pull the stops out of your mobilization program. And it would ease the American people into a false sense of security.

"The peace bid wouldn't mean anything in the long run," these diplomats believed. "For as long as Russia maintains a huge land army the world cannot be safe. But a false sense of security is just what Moscow wants."

This may be what is happening today. It is interesting that Malik's speech came just as the price control bill was nearing a vote and just as Congress was about to adopt the biggest tax bill in peacetime history—most of it to pay the cost of mobilization.

Senatorial Advice

Senator Warren Magnuson, the handsome young bachelor from Washington state, offered cigar-chewing Senator Bill Langer of North Dakota a bit of advice the other day.

Magnuson noticed that the cigars chewed by the North Dakota senator are the expensive, Havana-made stogies and that Langer never took the wrappers off.

"Bill," suggested Magnuson, "why don't you chew nickel cigars? The cellophane tastes just the same."

McCarthy Demands Reward

Republican leaders did some fancy, backstage wirepulling to keep Senator McCarthy off the important GOP policy committee. Here is the inside story of what happened.

McCarthy had demanded the policy committee seat as his reward for smearing the Democrats and carrying five states for Republican senators last November—Maryland, Utah, California, Indiana and Illinois. He was supported in this claim by such Republicans as Senator Ferguson of Michigan, who argued that McCarthy's name-calling was worth ten to twenty thousand votes in each state; but he was opposed by Senator Millikin of Colorado, the GOP Senate chairman, who flatly refused to appoint McCarthy to the policy committee.

Even McCarthy's close friend, Senator Taft, remarked privately that he would vote against McCarthy. They feared that, if McCarthy got on the policy committee, it would look as if the Republican party endorsed his tactics.

However, two of McCarthy's more vociferous friends, Senators Welker of Idaho and Jenner of Indiana, drew up a petition to force a showdown vote, and secured the signatures of Senators Wherry of Nebraska, Schoeppel of Kansas and Williams of Delaware. What they proposed was to add another member to the policy committee in order to create a vacancy for McCarthy.

Under the rules, this petition forced Millikin to call a meeting of all Republican senators, which he did.

Meanwhile, however, GOP leaders moved fast. They shifted committee assignments around to create a vacancy on the powerful Senate rules committee, then in order to pacify McCarthy, offered the rules post to him. This was too much of a temptation for McCarthy to resist, and he accepted. For it put him in a position to block the Senate report on the Maryland elections, where he is up to his neck in this scandal and anxious for a whitewash.

For example, the Maryland investigation has already discovered that McCarthy's assistant, Don Surine, perjured himself before a Senate committee and was kicked out of the FBI for fraternizing with a white slavery prostitute he was supposed to be investigating.

So McCarthy accepted the rules committee post. After attaining this, however, he refused to be satisfied and continued his campaign to get on the policy committee.

Forgotten Speeches

The last time Congress had a major debate on price controls was in 1946, at which time a lot of interesting speeches were made, some of which certain congressmen would like to forget. Significantly, it's some of the same solons who are promising reduced prices if controls once again are relaxed. Here is what they said in 1946—after which food prices went up 50 to 100 per cent:

Senator Wherry (Neb. Rep.)—"Mr. Bowles has said that if price controls were eliminated, the price of meat would go up 50 per cent. Mr. Bowles is trying to scare us. My prediction is that without price control meat will cost less than today." (Meat is now up in some cases more than 100 per cent).

Senator Taft (Ohio Rep.)—"The President's figures on possible increases are a wild guess and for the most part dead wrong."

Congressman Miller (Neb. Rep.)—"This agency (OPA) has put out so much propaganda and false statements that the people no longer heed their cry of 'wolf! wolf!'"

Congressman Schwabe (Okla. Rep.)—"What would another increase hurt? Not even close to the dire predictions of Bowles, Winchell, Pearson et al . . . the longer OPA continues to operate, the worse the inflation is likely to become."

Congressman Hoffman (Mich. Rep.)—"OPA and its operator Chester Bowles are responsible in part for the fact that the cost of living has gone up."

National Association of Manufacturers—"If OPA is permanently discontinued, the production of goods will mount rapidly and prices will quickly adjust themselves to levels that consumers are willing to pay . . . prices will be fair and reasonable to all."

Miss Virginia Los Kamp, of New York city, for 17 years choir director and soloist at the Rondout Presbyterian Church, sang her farewell as her resignation became effective.

Mrs. Albert Jeghers, a former resident of Rosendale and Saugerties, died at Mt. Vernon.

Miss Mathilda Sass and William I. Sickler were married in St. Peter's Church.

June 28, 1941—A west-bound West Shore railroad freight crashed into the rear of a Wallkill Valley freight in the north yard, damaging cars but causing no injuries to trainmen.

Nicholas Hogeboom, of Main street, was reappointed to the local water board for five years.

Nelson Lewis, of Kingston, was named a regional director of the New York State Christian Endeavor Union at Albany.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 28—Just why there should be so much surprise manifested here publicly by American government officials that Russia is agreeable to a "cease fire" in Korea is somewhat of a mystery. For the truth is the Washington administration has been sending peace feelers to Moscow recently, and has been getting some peace feelers from Russia, too.

The surprise, of course, is that Russia did anything about it after the preliminary exchanges, or that it acted so suddenly after getting the feelers.

What is most important to ascertain some day is why the United States government took the initiative in recent weeks to bring about the "cease fire," and what was said in addition concerning possible terms of agreement.

The White House recently denied any knowledge of peace moves, even though stories about it were widely published just in advance of Jacob Malik's public pronouncement. Such denials are to be expected. Whenever there is any high level negotiation in progress it is always possible to deny that anything has happened because so often nothing materializes in the end.

The channels of communication between the American government and the Soviet government directly and indirectly have been rather numerous. Some negotiations at one time were carried on through the government of India and its diplomatic representative at Peiping. On another occasion the Swedish diplomatic representative in Peiping was reported to have taken up certain aspects of the Korean negotiation. The Russian ambassador to the United States who left here a few weeks ago is believed to have carried back to Moscow some important information bearing on a possible settlement of the Korean war. American Ambassador Kirk has visited the Russian foreign office from time to time recently without disclosing the purpose or results of his visits.

The impression which prevails here is that the "peace feeler" business is never done in writing, but orally, and that when Mr. Gromyko was in Paris until a few days ago working at the deputy foreign ministers' conference, the opportunity presented itself for some interesting conversations between him and the diplomatic representatives of various nations. These indirect approaches, however, did very little more than pave the way for the direct approaches. It is Mr. Gromyko who now is in Moscow talking to Ambassador Kirk, and it was Ambassador Kirk who was in Paris recently for a visit.

It may be stated positively that the United States government and the Russian government were in communication about a possible cease-fire in Korea before Jacob Malik made his public statement.

The United Nations members have, of course, been pressing the State Department for a settlement because most of them have been anxious to see American armed forces relieved of their Far Eastern task so as to concentrate on the defense of Europe.

The effectiveness of all these approaches to Russia were not known in advance and there were people in Washington who thought that some time might elapse before Russia would do anything about them. In that sense, the Moscow decision last week to permit a public discussion of a cease-fire proposal was a surprise as to the timing only.

The real tip-off to Russia came from Secretary of State Acheson himself last month just after General MacArthur was dismissed. It came in the secretary's speech to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and was followed almost immediately by an address in the same vein delivered by Warren Austin American ambassador to the U.N. Both men officially stated that the United States was not asking for a military decision in order to unify Korea, and that negotiation by diplomacy of the political questions and even the basic mission—restoring peace in North Korea—would be satisfactory. This viewpoint was then further emphasized by a remarkably coincidental set of expressions by three witnesses at the MacArthur hearings—Secretary of Defense Marshall, General Bradley and General Collins.

All these witnesses echoed the line taken by the secretary of state, namely, that a military decision was either not going to be pursued or that it was impractical. Incidentally, General Collins gave the impression that a military victory in Korea was impossible—a somewhat surprising viewpoint at the time.

The sudden emphasis on the part of all our high officials on the fact that the U.N. forces were no longer to fulfill their original mission to clear Korea of all aggressor forces, but would accept a stalemate on the 38th Parallel for purposes of discussion of "political" objectives, undoubtedly appealed to the Russian government as a definite plan from which the American government would not back away because of its explicit public statements.

So today the Kremlin, having listened to the pleas of the American government for a cease-fire and a political negotiation, is naturally anxious to conclude the terms of the armistice, after which, to be sure, the political negotiation may go on for months or years. Unless there are ironclad guarantees against recurring aggression American troops are not likely to come home soon.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Midland, Texas, June 27—There was an impromptu meeting of our floating cell of the Society of Red-Baiters of the United States in a basement lair of the Wilkinson Foster Bldg., where Robert E. Stripling and James H. Steedman have an office entitled, on its door, "Oil." That is all "Oil." That is all there is hereabouts. Oil is mutable into money.

Mr. Stripling was for several years the chief investigator of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He showed up Alger Hiss as the triumph of his painful but successful career during which he was harshly persecuted by the Roosevelt-Truman Communist Cabal. Then he wrote his book, picked up his profit which, unlike General Eisenhower's, however, was not exempt from the income tax, and put down his stakes in the latest of the fabulous Texas oil goleondas.

Mr. Steedman was the committee's investigator on the Pacific coast during most of his service with the committee, specializing in the political treason of the Hollywood riff-raff. He helped to turn up the proof of Communist treachery which thereafter lay in the possession of the committee all this time until it was sprung on a galaxy of eminent traitors within the last few months.

Then knowing that they would be confronted with their party records if they didn't come clean, they came in babbling that they had been gullible innocents who hadn't rightly known what communism was. Gullible innocents isn't what they were. Lying, sadistic, double-crossing conspirators is what they rightly were, who deserved to be shot as becomes traitors, and whoever forgives them now and pays admission to movies in which they flaunt their pretty, painted faces and prattle recitations written by their like is not gullible, either, but culpable.

There was Dick Fowler, the managing editor of the Midland Reporter Journal, which is a trade journal of the oil business, with a jabberwocky of its own. Mr. Fowler was with the old Dies Committee in 1941 through 1942, and Milo Palmer, now in oil, with two sections of land that his pa bought for $3 an acre, was with the same committee on the hill in Washington. This bunching of veteran and inveterate Red baiters in Midland is sheer coincidence. So was the presence for a few hours of a solemn fellow named Jake Spolansky, one of the pioneers in the sport, a native of

Heartening signs have developed recently of a widening trend toward use of air coach or tourist reduced-fare service by the commercial airlines.

American Airlines, which led the way with fast DC-6 daylight air coach operations last year, has added another coast-to-coast flight by an alternate route. The original run is reported a substantial success.

Other domestic lines can offer similar testimony. Since coach operations became common in late 1949, the carriers have picked up extra revenue without apparent harm to their regular full-fare trade.

To illustrate, coach service brought the domestic companies $43,000,000 in 1950, as against only $9,600,000 in 1949. But first-class passenger revenues didn't suffer correspondingly. They rose $14,550,000 to a total of $347,000,000 in 1950 as compared with 1949.

All coach service is under temporary authorization from the Civil Aeronautics Board, which viewed it originally as an experiment and has not yet revised its official attitude. The idea was to test the service to see whether it would tap a wholly new market, as some lines claimed, or whether it would simply subtract business from the full-fare service.

None of the lines would contend that air coach revenues are all pure gain. But those employing the service believe most of the return represents new customers who otherwise wouldn't travel. They think air coach is here to stay.

In the overseas field, Pan American World Airways has been urging since 1948 that tourist fares be applied to the rich trans-Atlantic route. Like the domestic lines, Pan American argued that lower fares would broaden the base of the air travel market and more than compensate the overseas carriers through increased volume.

The Economic Cooperation Administration supported this contention, recommending tourist rates as a means by which dollar-hungry European countries could earn more dollars.

The CAB, opposed for some time to extension of the coach-fare plan to overseas lines, changed its mind this spring.

Last month at Bermuda, at a meeting of the International Air Transport Association representing major international carriers, Pan Am's tourist service plan, urged also by Belgium's Sabena Airlines, was at length adopted.

Some foreign lines are skeptical of the economics of lower fares, however, and their opposition was still felt at Bermuda. To obtain unanimous agreement on the cheaper service, it was necessary to put off its effective date 18 months, beyond the end of the 1952 summer season.

MISDIRECTION

Stage magicians frequently use a smooth line of talk and rapid movements to draw the attention of the audience away from what is really happening. This technique of misdirection is a favorite of diplomats and politicians as well.

Diplomats frequently disguise their actual aims by discussing publicly matters of little importance. Politicians try to protect their own record from examination by attacks on their opponents. Only by keeping their eyes open and being certain of what the real issues are can people keep from being duped. The hand is quicker than the eye only when the eye wanders.

DETECTING RAIN

Will radar come to the rescue of the harassed weatherman and the embarrassed picnicker? A private weather consultant in St. Louis has been granted a permit to experiment with radar for the detection of rain clouds and the charting of their movements.

Radar, first developed to detect the approach of hostile aircraft while still beyond the range of sight and sound, has proved to be remarkably useful for helping commercial planes to fly and land safely, helping ships to find their way through fog and storm, and even for trapping speeders on the highways. Yet none of these accomplishments would compare, in the mind of the common man, with certain warning of the coming of rain.

If this thing works, if radar can enable man to set out with assurance on an enterprise which could be ruined by unexpected rain, then man may be forgiven if he wonders what new fields remain to be conquered.

'These Days'

LIFE IS FRAGILE

We are so sure, so positive, so full of ourselves. Then something happens to bring us close to the knowledge of how fragile we are, how fragile life itself is. I recall when Winston Churchill was knocked down on Fifth Avenue, how Fritz Kreisler was knocked down by a truck. Churchill lived to lead his country through blood, sweat and tears. Kreisler has been spared for a world that loves him.

These thoughts came to me as for a moment it seemed as though all of us, nearly an entire family, in the best of cheer, off on a summer holiday, faced the immediate possibility of sudden death. It does not take more than a split second to discover humility—and thankfulness to a gracious God.

Our car was standing stark still on an approach to the West Side Highway, not more than five minutes from home. We were moving from the big city to a farm I have in Massachusetts. All winter we look forward to the day when we shall make our annual return to the woods and a few weeks of closeness to nature. We were waiting to get into the line of traffic.

Then came, at a terrific rush, a policeman on a motorcycle. He apparently was after a speeder or something. Suddenly we felt the impact of his machine into our car. He fell over his machine. To us, it seemed as though he had flown into the air and soon enough, too soon, we heard his groans. We only suffered damage to our car, but we suffered emotionally with him. It might have been us.

For hours we waited. And it was impossible not to think of how the courtesy of the road seems to have disappeared altogether. Few drivers put their hands out to signal changes of destination or slowing up. Few ever think of warning the car behind them of sudden stops. On country roads at night, it is not rare to see bright lights undimmed for passing cars even though a collision might result from such negligence.

But the worst offenders seem to be gabby folk who hold conferences while driving and lovers who believe the closeness makes the road more safe.

One becames more conscious of these infractions after a first accident. If there had been no speeder, the motorcycle policeman would not so suddenly have taken to the chase and none of this might have happened, imperilling his life and almost ending ours. Perhaps after the speeder reaches his destination, there was nothing to get there for. Yet, there could have been a half dozen deaths because he did not follow the rules of the road.

It is not only the rules of the road that we so often ignore; it is the rules of life itself. For there are rules which the whole experience of the human race, at whatever level of culture, does accept. The Senate committee which is now meeting to consider ethics in government faces the same problem that we did in our collision; it is not so much the law as it is decency, which comes down to the simplicities of the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule and such aphoristic statements of right.

The simple rules of life suffice when all the complexities of laws and regulations do not. Most men do not commit murder because they fear the law. Probably when a man shoots an adulterous wife, he never thinks of the law. His emotions are vengeful; he does not think at all and all the laws on all the books from Hammurabi to Fulbright will not check his hand, unless deeply ground into his character is the simple statement: "Those shalt not kill."

That command originated not from legislation or personal decision. It reaches him from outside himself, from God, not as a request or a suggestion, not with explanations or reasons—but as a direct statement of what is expected of him. Vengeance is the Lord's, not man's. The transference is important, for it withdraws from us altogether many of the emotional reactions which lead to indecencies, improprieties, wrongs. If we reject the commandments, we imperil not only ourselves, but all men.

Analyzing the various criticisms of the American government and even American life of our day, it would seem that most of our social illnesses, attributable to what is so lightly called "modern," "up-to-date," "progress," really are bad manners and degraded morals.

Forgotten Speeches

The last time Congress had a major debate on price controls was in 1946, at which time a lot of interesting speeches were made, some of which certain congressmen would like to forget. Significantly, it's some of the same solons who are promising reduced prices if controls once again are relaxed. Here is what they said in 1946—after which food prices went up 50 to 100 per cent:

Senator Wherry (Neb. Rep.)—"Mr. Bowles has said that if price controls were eliminated, the price of meat would go up 50 per cent. Mr. Bowles is trying to scare us. My prediction is that without price control meat will cost less than today." (Meat is now up in some cases more than 100 per cent).

Senator Taft (Ohio Rep.)—"The President's figures on possible increases are a wild guess and for the most part dead wrong."

Congressman Miller (Neb. Rep.)—"This agency (OPA) has put out so much propaganda and false statements that the people no longer heed their cry of 'wolf! wolf!'"

Congressman Schwabe (Okla. Rep.)—"What would another increase hurt? Not even close to the dire predictions of Bowles, Winchell, Pearson et al . . . the longer OPA continues to operate, the worse the inflation is likely to become."

Congressman Hoffman (Mich. Rep.)—"OPA and its operator Chester Bowles are responsible in part for the fact that the cost of living has gone up."

National Association of Manufacturers—"If OPA is permanently discontinued, the production of goods will mount rapidly and prices will quickly adjust themselves to levels that consumers are willing to pay . . . prices will be fair and reasonable to all."

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

June 28, 1931—The Rev. John M. Flick, C.Ss.R., of this city, celebrated his first solemn Mass at St. Peter's Church here.

Miss Virginia Los Kamp, of New York city, for 17 years choir director and soloist at the Rondout Presbyterian Church, sang her farewell as her resignation became effective.

Mrs. Albert Jeghers, a former resident of Rosendale and Saugerties, died at Mt. Vernon.

Miss Mathilda Sass and William I. Sickler were married in St. Peter's Church.

June 28, 1941—A west-bound West Shore railroad freight crashed into the rear of a Wallkill Valley freight in the north yard, damaging cars but causing no injuries to trainmen.

Nicholas Hogeboom, of Main street, was reappointed to the local water board for five years.

Nelson Lewis, of Kingston, was named a regional director of the New York State Christian Endeavor Union at Albany.

A continued warm spell in the area brought the mercury to 97 in the city.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 28—Just why there should be so much surprise manifested here publicly by American government officials that Russia is agreeable to a "cease fire" in Korea is somewhat of a mystery. For the truth is the Washington administration has been sending peace feelers to Moscow recently, and has been getting some peace feelers from Russia, too.

The surprise, of course, is that Russia did anything about it after the preliminary exchanges, or that it acted so suddenly after getting the feelers.

What is most important to ascertain some day is why the United States government took the initiative in recent weeks to bring about the "cease fire," and what was said in addition concerning possible terms of agreement.

The White House recently denied any knowledge of peace moves, even though stories about it were widely published just in advance of Jacob Malik's public pronouncement. Such denials are to be expected. Whenever there is any high level negotiation in progress it is always possible to deny that anything has happened because so often nothing materializes in the end.

The channels of communication between the American government and the Soviet government directly and indirectly have been rather numerous. Some negotiations at one time were carried on through the government of India and its diplomatic representative at Peiping. On another occasion the Swedish diplomatic representative in Peiping was reported to have taken up certain aspects of the Korean negotiation. The Russian ambassador to the United States who left here a few weeks ago is believed to have carried back to Moscow some important information bearing on a possible settlement of the Korean war. American Ambassador Kirk has visited the Russian foreign office from time to time recently without disclosing the purpose or results of his visits.

The impression which prevails here is that the "peace feeler" business is never done in writing, but orally, and that when Mr. Gromyko was in Paris until a few days ago working at the deputy foreign ministers' conference, the opportunity presented itself for some interesting conversations between him and the diplomatic representatives of various nations. These indirect approaches, however, did very little more than pave the way for the direct approaches. It is Mr. Gromyko who now is in Moscow talking to Ambassador Kirk, and it was Ambassador Kirk who was in Paris recently for a visit.

It may be stated positively that the United States government and the Russian government were in communication about a possible cease-fire in Korea before Jacob Malik made his public statement.

The United Nations members have, of course, been pressing the State Department for a settlement because most of them have been anxious to see American armed forces relieved of their Far Eastern task so as to concentrate on the defense of Europe.

The effectiveness of all these approaches to Russia were not known in advance and there were people in Washington who thought that some time might elapse before Russia would do anything about them. In that sense, the Moscow decision last week to permit a public discussion of a cease-fire proposal was a surprise as to the timing only.

The real tip-off to Russia came from Secretary of State Acheson himself last month just after General MacArthur was dismissed. It came in the secretary's speech to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and was followed almost immediately by an address in the same vein delivered by Warren Austin American ambassador to the U.N. Both men officially stated that the United States was not asking for a military decision in order to unify Korea, and that negotiation by diplomacy of the political questions and even the basic mission—restoring peace in North Korea—would be satisfactory. This viewpoint was then further emphasized by a remarkably coincidental set of expressions by three witnesses at the MacArthur hearings—Secretary of Defense Marshall, General Bradley and General Collins.

All these witnesses echoed the line taken by the secretary of state, namely, that a military decision was either not going to be pursued or that it was impractical. Incidentally, General Collins gave the impression that a military victory in Korea was impossible—a somewhat surprising viewpoint at the time.

The sudden emphasis on the part of all our high officials on the fact that the U.N. forces were no longer to fulfill their original mission to clear Korea of all aggressor forces, but would accept a stalemate on the 38th Parallel for purposes of discussion of "political" objectives, undoubtedly appealed to the Russian government as a definite plan from which the American government would not back away because of its explicit public statements.

So today the Kremlin, having listened to the pleas of the American government for a cease-fire and a political negotiation, is naturally anxious to conclude the terms of the armistice, after which, to be sure, the political negotiation may go on for months or years. Unless there are ironclad guarantees against recurring aggression American troops are not likely to come home soon.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Midland, Texas, June 27—There was an impromptu meeting of our floating cell of the Society of Red-Baiters of the United States in a basement lair of the Wilkinson Foster Bldg., where Robert E. Stripling and James H. Steedman have an office entitled, on its door, "Oil." That is all "Oil." That is all there is hereabouts. Oil is mutable into money.

Mr. Stripling was for several years the chief investigator of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He showed up Alger Hiss as the triumph of his painful but successful career during which he was harshly persecuted by the Roosevelt-Truman Communist Cabal. Then he wrote his book, picked up his profit which, unlike General Eisenhower's, however, was not exempt from the income tax, and put down his stakes in the latest of the fabulous Texas oil golcondas.

Mr. Steedman was the committee's investigator on the Pacific coast during most of his service with the committee, specializing in the political treason of the Hollywood riff-raff. He helped to turn up the proof of Communist treachery which thereafter lay in the possession of the committee all this time until it was sprung on a galaxy of eminent traitors within the last few months.

Then knowing that they would be confronted with their party records if they didn't come clean, they came in babbling that they had been gullible innocents who hadn't rightly known what communism was. Gullible innocents isn't what they were. Lying, sadistic, double-crossing conspirators is what they rightly were, who deserved to be shot as becomes traitors, and whoever forgives them now and pays admission to movies in which they flaunt their pretty, painted faces and prattle recitations written by their like is not gullible, either, but culpable.

There was Dick Fowler, the managing editor of the Midland Reporter Journal, which is a trade journal of the oil business, with a jabberwocky of its own. Mr. Fowler was with the old Dies Committee in 1941 through 1942, and Milo Palmer, now in oil, with two sections of land that his pa bought for $3 an acre, was with the same committee on the hill in Washington. This bunching of veteran and inveterate Red baiters in Midland is sheer coincidence. So was the presence for a few hours of a solemn fellow named Jake Spolansky, one of the pioneers in the sport, a native of

Jury Decides Both Are Pure; No Divorce

Mineola, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—A Nassau county jury decided yesterday that neither millionaire Murray Landy nor his blonde wife, Isabel, was guilty of adultery, and its verdict denied divorces to both of them.

After deliberating two hours and 35 minutes the jury of five men and seven women returned the following verdict:

Mrs. Landy, 33, did not commit adultery with magazine illustrator Arthur Sarnoff in her Hotel Oglethorpe room in Savannah, Ga., last March.

Landy, 44, a retired paper manufacturer, did not commit adultery with an unidentified platinum blonde in Miami Beach in December, 1948.

Husband and wife had filed the charges against one another, and each had requested a divorce. Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York state.

After the verdict, Mrs. Landy announced through counsel that she would begin action to regain custody of the Landy children, Judith, 8, and Mitchell, 6. The children now reside with the father at Great Neck, N. Y., on Long Island.

Identity Mixes Fashions

Tel Aviv (AP)—Mme. Guyon, the wife of the French Minister to Israel, wondered why she had been repeatedly congratulated for fashion suggestions of hers that she has never heard of before. The astonishment was mixed with some embarrassment when she was told last week, that this time she wasn't as original as usual. As a matter of fact, she didn't know that a local daily featured a once-a-week syndicated fashion column (sent from London) called "Le choix de Paris" and written by a Mme. Guyon. Apparently another one.

Subject to change, the program is as follows: July: 10, summer project planning; August 7, business meeting; September 11 and 18, stuffed toys; October 2 and 9, keeping the new look, care of clothing; November 13, foods; December 4, Christmas greens and party; January 8, home nursing; February 5, family fun and election of officers; March, business; April 1 and 22, decorative stitches; May 13, folklore and history; June 3, social and basic dress. The July 10 meeting is planned to give the members and any other women of the community who may be interested an opportunity to decide on a project which will be taught during the summer months. Any one interested is requested to attend this meeting as a definite project will be decided. Dates for the lessons will be set at that meeting, which will be held at 8 p. m. at the school house. In addition to the above listed projects, a meeting, date to be announced, will be held during the year on mental health, with Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent.

Identity Mixes Fashions

Tel Aviv (AP)—Mme. Guyon, the wive of the French Minister to Israel, wondered why she had been repeatedly congratulated for fashion suggestions of hers that she has never heard of before. The astonishment was mixed with some embarrassment when she was told last week, that this time she wasn't as original as usual. As a matter of fact, she didn't know that a local daily featured a once-a-week syndicated fashion column (sent from London) called "Le choix de Paris" and written by a Mme. Guyon. Apparently another one.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

RAIN ON THE WIND
By Walter Macken

In exquisite prose and with deep understanding of the plain people the author paints a picture of a small village in Ireland and its people just before they were spoiled by the march of progress.

When the story opens little boys still wore red petticoats like their sisters, and lived in small picturesque stone cottages with thatched roofs, their interiors dark and blackened by the smoke from turf, burning in the fireplaces, where all the cooking was done.

In such a house lived the leading characters of the book, Mico and his brother Thomas with their parents, big Micil Mor and Delia; and Gran. Poor Mico had an ugly birthmark covering one side of his face, and a slow mind; while his brother Thomas was attractive and had a brilliant record at the school where Pa, the irascible teacher, is at once gratified with Thomas' ability and in despair over Mico's stupidity.

However, Mico's generosity and kind heart win him many friends and as soon as he is all owed to leave school he is permitted to join his father and Gran on their sail boat for deep sea fishing trips, and in time to supersede Gran and to attain his ambition of full partnership with his father. Thomas won a scholarship and went to college and became a tutor and was his mother's pride and joy.

A schoolboy episode wherein Mico, Thomas, Twacky—an impish schoolmate—Peter, only child of well-to-do parents at the other end of the town, are marooned by high tide over night on a small island together with pretty, prim, bookish Josephine who had gone to the island ahead of them, was blamed entirely to Mico. And so Mico was consequently sent to live with his uncle James in Connemara. There life was even harder than at home. The people were pitifully poor but life for Mico was at its brightest after he met Coimin and lovely Maeve, who was the first to tell him that his birthmark didn't matter. One night the three of them went digging for silvery sand eels in the moonlight, a perfect night for Mico until Maeve told him that she was going to marry Coimin.

Mico went home soon after that and was saddened by a tragic event which brought to an end the idyllic romance of Peter and Josephine. Mico suffered with them and soon after that went back with his father to Connemara where he gallantly rejoiced in the happiness of Maeva and Coimin in the charming little house they had built for themselves. Then comes the highlight of the book. The fishermen of Connemara, accompanied by Mico and Micil sail out for a night of fishing in the moonlight. The sudden blacking out of the moonlight, the furious wind and storm, the lashing waves, the screams of the drowning, the superhuman struggle for survival; followed by dawn on a calm, smooth sea covering the dead bodies of those who were not washed ashore; the multiple funeral and—hardest to bear—Maeve's stony grief and hopeless waiting for Coimin who never returned.

Mico went back home, hugging a hope that somehow, sometime Maeve would follow him. She finally did and then there was interference from Thomas. The story ends on how the brothers settled that.

Like a melody the book begins and ends with the same theme.

As Pegler Sees It

Russia and long with the FBI. Jake recently did one of the best factual books on the conspiracy, "The Communist Trail in America." He was hereabouts on business of his own and dropped in on a quorum in this office down cellar of the Wilkinson Foster Bldg., which is six stories high and clock a block like the hotels.

This might seem unnecessarily lofty in a countryside out in the old Dust Bowl, but there are two other buildings 13 stories high and in a weak moment I would be willing to bet you that you never even heard of Midland, Texas. There is a war boom on in the great southwest. Truman would sweep Texas like a cyclone.

For a neighbor, as you might say, the Messrs. Stripling, Steedman, Fowler and Palmer have Ralph Ingersoll, late editor of PM or PU or Marshall Field's Thing, which was called pro-Communist without protest full many a time in its maleficent life in New York. Mr. Ingersoll once printed a layout of his staff, handpicked for PM or PU, with a noncommittal discussion of the possibility that this or that one or most of them had Bolshevist tendencies but he has never owned up to anything. He, too, came down here to make money in oil.

Harold Young, formerly secretary to Henry Wallace, is now a lawyer in general practice over in Odessa, 20 miles away in the same oil belt, and just about one day's run to the west, over toward Carlsbad, New Mexico. Nathan Witt is messing around in a strike of the Mine, Mill and Smelters Workers, which was too Red even for the CIO. Witt's old classmate Leon Pressman, confessing his own association, tagged Witt a Communist a few months ago and Witt didn't say no. Alger Hiss didn't confess, but Mr. Stripling hung even worse on him.

Mr. Fowler covered the Italian campaign from Naples up to the invasion of southern France and on up from there and came back to Texas covering the state for the Dallas News. In this job he had constant recourse to the tumbled papers on the exchange table and formed a low opinion of the ethics, ability and responsibility of the small town Texas press in general. He expressed this opinion out loud at a meeting of the West Texas Editors and loaded it with facts about the widespread use of canned editorials bought from syndicates. The Odessa American is one of the few little papers in the state with editorial opinions and principles of its own, but they seem wasted on a public peroccupied with war profits.

I am told that the west Texas editors not only didn't mind what Mr. Fowler said about their journalism but didn't surely know what he was talking about. Did the fellow mean that they ought to sit down and write their own opinions when they could buy canned editorials for about a dollar a week per linear foot, guaranteed not to offend Democrats, Republicans or even Communists? Mr. Fowler once took occasion to state that old John Nance Garner, Texas landmark made of perishable material, was not a sterling patriot at all but a stingy, calculating old time country banker who put his corrupt political party above his country and held his tongue when he should have hollered out against the Communists and especially the nomination of Henry Wallace, for his old job of vice president. That has been my opinion of Garner ever since '40, but I am surprised to learn that any Texan let him have his deserving in his own home state.

Needed Money for Gas

New York, June 28 (AP)—A New Jersey grocery clerk, accused of trying to hold up a mid-Manhattan bank teller with a toy gun, is quoted as saying he needed money to buy gas for his new car. Police yesterday arrested Daniel N. D'Alesandro, 26, of Camden. They said D'Alesandro walked into the Chemical Bank and Trust Company branch at Eight avenue and 57th street, shoved a $5 check into the teller's cage with an attached note reading: "This is a stickup. Give me some of your money."

Milk Increase Announced

New York, June 28 (AP)—Sheffield Farms and Borden milk companies announced yesterday a one-cent increase in the price of milk beginning July 1 in the New York metropolitan area. The Borden Company increase will be effective in Suffolk county as well as New York city, Nassau and Westchester, the area embracing Sheffield's metropolitan operations. Both companies said the rise was a seasonal one reflecting the federal milk marketing order of Monday which increased the price paid to dairy farmers.

Although the American population increased by 14 per cent from 1941 to 1950, the domestic food consumption per person in 1950 was three per cent larger than in 1941.

BOOK REVIEW

RAIN ON THE WIND
By Walter Macken

In exquisite prose and with deep understanding of the plain people the author paints a picture of a small village in Ireland and its people just before they were spoiled by the march of progress.

When the story opens little boys still wore red petticoats like their sisters, and lived in small picturesque stone cottages with thatched roofs, their interiors dark and blackened by the smoke from turf, burning in the fireplaces, where all the cooking was done.

In such a house lived the leading characters of the book, Mico and his brother Thomas with their parents, big Micil Mor and Delia; and Gran. Poor Mico had an ugly birthmark covering one side of his face, and a slow mind; while his brother Thomas was attractive and had a brilliant record at the school where Pa, the irascible teacher, is at once gratified with Thomas' ability and in despair over Mico's stupidity.

However, Mico's generosity and kind heart win him many friends and as soon as he is all owed to leave school he is permitted to join his father and Gran on their sail boat for deep sea fishing trips, and in time to supersede Gran and to attain his ambition of full partnership with his father. Thomas won a scholarship and went to college and became a tutor and was his mother's pride and joy.

A schoolboy episode wherein Mico, Thomas, Twacky—an impish schoolmate—Peter, only child of well-to-do parents at the other end of the town, are marooned by high tide over night on a small island together with pretty, prim, bookish Josephine who had gone to the island ahead of them, was blamed entirely to Mico. And so Mico was consequently sent to live with his uncle James in Connemara. There life was even harder than at home. The people were pitifully poor but life for Mico was at its brightest after he met Coimin and lovely Maeve, who was the first to tell him that his birthmark didn't matter. One night the three of them went digging for silvery sand eels in the moonlight, a perfect night for Mico until Maeve told him that she was going to marry Coimin.

Mico went home soon after that and was saddened by a tragic event which brought to an end the idyllic romance of Peter and Josephine. Mico suffered with them and soon after that went back with his father to Connemara where he gallantly rejoiced in the happiness of Maeva and Coimin in the charming little house they had built for themselves. Then comes the highlight of the book. The fishermen of Connemara, accompanied by Mico and Micil sail out for a night of fishing in the moonlight. The sudden blacking out of the moonlight, the furious wind and storm, the lashing waves, the screams of the drowning, the superhuman struggle for survival; followed by dawn on a calm, smooth sea covering the dead bodies of those who were not washed ashore; the multiple funeral and—hardest to bear—Maeve's stony grief and hopeless waiting for Coimin who never returned.

Mico went back home, hugging a hope that somehow, sometime Maeve would follow him. She finally did and then there was interference from Thomas. The story ends on how the brothers settled that.

Like a melody the book begins and ends with the same theme.

As Pegler Sees It

Russia and long with the FBI. Jake recently did one of the best factual books on the conspiracy, "The Communist Trail in America." He was hereabouts on business of his own and dropped in on a quorum in this office down cellar of the Wilkinson Foster Bldg., which is six stories high and clock a block like the hotels.

This might seem unnecessarily lofty in a countryside out in the old Dust Bowl, but there are two other buildings 13 stories high and in a weak moment I would be willing to bet you that you never even heard of Midland, Texas. There is a war boom on in the great southwest. Truman would sweep Texas like a cyclone.

For a neighbor, as you might say, the Messrs. Stripling, Steedman, Fowler and Palmer have Ralph Ingersoll, late editor of PM or PU or Marshall Field's Thing, which was called pro-Communist without protest full many a time in its maleficent life in New York. Mr. Ingersoll once printed a layout of his staff, handpicked for PM or PU, with a noncommittal discussion of the possibility that this or that one or most of them had Bolshevist tendencies but he has never owned up to anything. He, too, came down here to make money in oil.

Harold Young, formerly secretary to Henry Wallace, is now a lawyer in general practice over in Odessa, 20 miles away in the same oil belt, and just about one day's run to the west, over toward Carlsbad, New Mexico. Nathan Witt is messing around in a strike of the Mine, Mill and Smelters Workers, which was too Red even for the CIO. Witt's old classmate Leon Pressman, confessing his own association, tagged Witt a Communist a few months ago and Witt didn't say no. Alger Hiss didn't confess, but Mr. Stripling hung even worse on him.

Mr. Fowler covered the Italian campaign from Naples up to the invasion of southern France and on up from there and came back to Texas covering the state for the Dallas News. In this job he had constant recourse to the tumbled papers on the exchange table and formed a low opinion of the ethics, ability and responsibility of the small town Texas press in general. He expressed this opinion out loud at a meeting of the West Texas Editors and loaded it with facts about the widespread use of canned editorials bought from syndicates. The Odessa American is one of the few little papers in the state with editorial opinions and principles of its own, but they seem wasted on a public peroccupied with war profits.

I am told that the west Texas editors not only didn't mind what Mr. Fowler said about their journalism but didn't surely know what he was talking about. Did the fellow mean that they ought to sit down and write their own opinions when they could buy canned editorials for about a dollar a week per linear foot, guaranteed not to offend Democrats, Republicans or even Communists? Mr. Fowler once took occasion to state that old John Nance Garner, Texas landmark made of perishable material, was not a sterling patriot at all but a stingy, calculating old time country banker who put his corrupt political party above his country and held his tongue when he should have hollered out against the Communists and especially the nomination of Henry Wallace, for his old job of vice president. Ex-Fireman Tells Of Collections, Had No Qualms, He Says

New York, June 28 (AP)—An ex-fireman yesterday described a kid-glove collection racket that netted his superiors and himself $350 to $400 a week from fuel oil firms.

The witness, Harry C. Crew, 35, admitted there was many a shady dollar to be made as a fireman-inspector but he said he didn't consider the set-up a shakedown.

Crew is one of four former firemen on trial before a General Sessions Court jury on conspiracy and extortion charges. The others are James Keohane, 51, James P. Digney, 60, and James F. Smith, 53.

They are accused of shaking down fuel oil installers who allegedly paid them off, for permits to install equipment, at the rate of $500,000 a year.

Crew testified that when he left line duty to join the Bureau of Combustibles as an inspector he knew "some money was to be made."

"I understand there was always money in the combustibles division," he added.

"In other words, the Division of Combustibles is synonymous with money?" he was asked.

"It always has been," Crew replied.

Passed Money Along

He said he passed on $350 to $400 a week to his superiors. They gave him back from this take about $50 to $60 a week to keep for himself.

In addition, Crew said he picked up a dollar here and there—sometimes $20 a day—from the places where he inspected equipment.

But he insisted he never okayed any installation that shouldn't have been okayed just because of the payoffs.

Of the money he passed on to his superiors, Crew said he learned that "a good substantial portion of this money was to go to Moran."

James J. Moran then was first deputy fire commissioner under ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer. Moran was named by the state earlier in the current trial as the master mind of the alleged fire department shakedown racket.

Earlier, Judge John J. Mullen dismissed 33 counts of the indictment against the ex-firemen, leaving 24 counts still against them. Defense counsel tried but failed to get the court to toss out the whole case.

To Hold Clambake

Wiltwyck Hose Company, No. 1, will hold a clambake on Sunday, August 5, at Sportsmen's Park, Route 32, Rosendale. Rod DuBois is chairman and he will be assisted by Al May.

Policy Is Reaffirmed

New York, June 28 (AP)—The American Red Cross has reaffirmed its policy of conducting its own fund-raising drives and not campaigning with other agencies. A resolution to that effect was passed yesterday by more than 6,000 delegates to the 26th annual ARC convention. The fund-raising resolution ended a year-long dispute between the national organization and the Detroit, Philadelphia and Bristol (Tenn.-Va.) chapters, which took part in joint fund drives. The three chapters have been ordered to "cease and desist" such practices. E. Roland Harriman, ARC president, says that the national organization has taken "no issue pro or con" concerning combined-agency fund raising, but maintains the Red Cross must raise "its own money for its own purposes."

Tracy Promoted By New York Tel.

F. W. Hartshorn, vice president and general manager of the New York Telephone Company for upstate, announced today the formation of the Northern Division, a new operating unit, with headquarters at Utica.

The new division, which will go into operation July 15, will include 210,000 telephones in Clinton, Delaware, Essex, Franklin, Hamilton, Herkimer, Oneida, Otsego, St. Lawrence and Warren counties.

It was pointed out by Mr. Hartshorn that today the company is serving nearly 1,400,000 telephones upstate—an increase of 66 per cent since 1946. "The rapid telephone growth in our upstate area," he said, "made it advisable for us to take this step so that management can continue to make important decisions at the community level.

"Establishing the Northern Division is in line with our policy of delegating authority to the men who are in close touch with the telephone needs of the individual communities. With this new division we will be able to give even more detailed attention to local service by providing administrative centers nearer the communities served," he declared.

Tracy Promoted

Through organization changes brought about by formation of the new division, C. W. Tracy, traffic superintendent here, has been promoted to district traffic superintendent.

Mr. Tracy attended the University of Buffalo, and was graduated in 1942 from Colgate University. Entering the company as a traffic student at Buffalo in 1946, he was soon transferred to Monticello as district traffic supervisor. In 1947 he became traffic superintendent in Plattsburg, and the following year moved here in the same capacity.

Mr. Tracy, his wife, the former Ann Anderson, and sons, Charles, 2, and Donald, 10 months, live at Hurley.

Ellenville Man Held

George H. Baker, 42, 136 Canal street, Ellenville, was arrested Wednesday at Ellenville by Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh and Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro on a warrant issued out of Children's Court by Judge John M. Cashin. Baker was ordered held in jail for six months or until discharged by law.

Cornellians Pay Tribute to 'Ma'

New York, June 28 (AP)—Ma Warner, who was cook and housemother at a Cornell University fraternity house from 1914 to 1922, was reunited with "her precious Boys" last night.

Gazing through misty eyes, the 91-year-old Negro woman said "this is the happiest moment of my life."

Twenty-five Cornell grads—"boys" no longer—showed up for a dinner in her honor at Keen's English Chop House.

It had been 29 years since Mrs. Carrie Warner left Sigma Alpha Mu. She was toasted and cheered at the reunion dinner, and at the end she received a silver locket and chain bearing the fraternity seal.

Better still—the diminutive woman won't have to live on relief any more. A hundred and fifty Cornell alumni—all members of Beta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu—have formed the Ma Warner Foundation to support her for the rest of her life.

Mother Warner's Love

As she cut a cake into pieces for the 25 men and their wives at the dinner, she told them: "I'm no great speechmaker, but with every piece of this cake goes Mother Warner's love to her precious boys."

Then she sang with them the college and fraternity songs she has remembered through the years.

After she left Cornell, Ma Warner cooked for private families until she was 80. Recently, Mrs. Betty Brooks, a social worker in Middletown, N. Y., was put in charge of Mrs. Warner's relief case. The aged woman told Mrs. Brooks she yearned to see her "boys" again.

Through the fraternity and Cornell, Mrs. Brooks managed to get in touch with alumni who remembered Ma Warner. When they learned of her plight, they formed the foundation for her.

Ex-Fireman Tells Of Collections, Had No Qualms, He Says

New York, June 28 (AP)—An ex-fireman yesterday described a kid-glove collection racket that netted his superiors and himself $350 to $400 a week from fuel oil firms.

The witness, Harry C. Crew, 35, admitted there was many a shady dollar to be made as a fireman-inspector but he said he didn't consider the set-up a shakedown.

Crew is one of four former firemen on trial before a General Sessions Court jury on conspiracy and extortion charges. The others are James Keohane, 51, James P. Digney, 60, and James F. Smith, 53.

They are accused of shaking down fuel oil installers who allegedly paid them off, for permits to install equipment, at the rate of $500,000 a year.

Crew testified that when he left line duty to join the Bureau of Combustibles as an inspector he knew "some money was to be made."

"I understand there was always money in the combustibles division," he added.

"In other words, the Division of Combustibles is synonymous with money?" he was asked.

"It always has been," Crew replied.

Passed Money Along

He said he passed on $350 to $400 a week to his superiors. They gave him back from this take about $50 to $60 a week to keep for himself.

In addition, Crew said he picked up a dollar here and there—sometimes $20 a day—from the places where he inspected equipment.

But he insisted he never okayed any installation that shouldn't have been okayed just because of the payoffs.

Of the money he passed on to his superiors, Crew said he learned that "a good substantial portion of this money was to go to Moran."

James J. Moran then was first deputy fire commissioner under ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer. Moran was named by the state earlier in the current trial as the master mind of the alleged fire department shakedown racket.

Earlier, Judge John J. Mullen dismissed 33 counts of the indictment against the ex-firemen, leaving 24 counts still against them. Defense counsel tried but failed to get the court to toss out the whole case.

Policy Is Reaffirmed

New York, June 28 (AP)—The American Red Cross has reaffirmed its policy of conducting its own fund-raising drives and not campaigning with other agencies. A resolution to that effect was passed yesterday by more than 6,000 delegates to the 26th annual ARC convention. The fund-raising resolution ended a year-long dispute between the national organization and the Detroit, Philadelphia and Bristol (Tenn.-Va.) chapters, which took part in joint fund drives. The three chapters have been ordered to "cease and desist" such practices. E. Roland Harriman, ARC president, says that the national organization has taken "no issue pro or con" concerning combined-agency fund raising, but maintains the Red Cross must raise "its own money for its own purposes."

Tracy Promoted By New York Tel.

F. W. Hartshorn, vice president and general manager of the New York Telephone Company for upstate, announced today the formation of the Northern Division, a new operating unit, with headquarters at Utica.

The new division, which will go into operation July 15, will include 210,000 telephones in Clinton, Delaware, Essex, Franklin, Hamilton, Herkimer, Oneida, Otsego, St. Lawrence and Warren counties.

It was pointed out by Mr. Hartshorn that today the company is serving nearly 1,400,000 telephones upstate—an increase of 66 per cent since 1946. "The rapid telephone growth in our upstate area," he said, "made it advisable for us to take this step so that management can continue to make important decisions at the community level.

"Establishing the Northern Division is in line with our policy of delegating authority to the men who are in close touch with the telephone needs of the individual communities. With this new division we will be able to give even more detailed attention to local service by providing administrative centers nearer the communities served," he declared.

Tracy Promoted

Through organization changes brought about by formation of the new division, C. W. Tracy, traffic superintendent here, has been promoted to district traffic superintendent.

Mr. Tracy attended the University of Buffalo, and was graduated in 1942 from Colgate University. Entering the company as a traffic student at Buffalo in 1946, he was soon transferred to Monticello as district traffic supervisor. In 1947 he became traffic superintendent in Plattsburg, and the following year moved here in the same capacity.

Mr. Tracy, his wife, the former Ann Anderson, and sons, Charles, 2, and Donald, 10 months, live at Hurley.

Ellenville Man Held

Vredenburgh and Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro on a warrant issued out of Children's Court by Judge John M. Cashin. Baker was ordered held in jail for six months or until discharged by law.

Cornellians Pay Tribute to 'Ma'

New York, June 28 (AP)—Ma Warner, who was cook and housemother at a Cornell University fraternity house from 1914 to 1922, was reunited with "her precious Boys" last night.

Gazing through misty eyes, the 91-year-old Negro woman said "this is the happiest moment of my life."

Twenty-five Cornell grads—"boys" no longer—showed up for a dinner in her honor at Keen's English Chop House.

It had been 29 years since Mrs. Carrie Warner left Sigma Alpha Mu. She was toasted and cheered at the reunion dinner, and at the end she received a silver locket and chain bearing the fraternity seal.

Better still—the diminutive woman won't have to live on relief any more. A hundred and fifty Cornell alumni—all members of Beta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu—have formed the Ma Warner Foundation to support her for the rest of her life.

Mother Warner's Love

As she cut a cake into pieces for the 25 men and their wives at the dinner, she told them: "I'm no great speechmaker, but with every piece of this cake goes Mother Warner's love to her precious boys."

Then she sang with them the college and fraternity songs she has remembered through the years.

After she left Cornell, Ma Warner cooked for private families until she was 80. Recently, Mrs. Betty Brooks, a social worker in Middletown, N. Y., was put in charge of Mrs. Warner's relief case. The aged woman told Mrs. Brooks she yearned to see her "boys" again.

Truman Joins Critics

New York, June 28 (AP)—President Truman joined labor and party supporters today in flinging a barrage at Republican critics. "These confusers and dividers are jeopardizing the security of the country," the President said in a message to a meeting sponsored by New York state Democrats. The Republicans, declared State Democratic Chairman Paul E. Fitzpatrick, have "lost their identity as a party" and have been taken over by "reactionary Dixiecrats."

Raid Is Staged

New York, June 28 (AP)—Federal, state and city officers staged a surprise security raid on the huge army base on the Brooklyn waterfront today and rounded up a number of suspected aliens. Nineteen of those taken into custody were loaded into a bus and taken to the district immigration office in Manhattan for a further check. Officers said 18 of them were Italian nationals, and one was a Belgian. One of them was said to have a coast guard pass in his possession.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 28 (AP)—Prices drifted down today in a stock market devoid of major buying or selling incentives.

Losses were held to a dollar a share or less among leaders. A few individual strong spots stood out in the list.

Definitely the downside were oils, motors, and aircrafts. Utilities were higher. All other principal groups were narrowly mixed, with the accent in the minus column.

U. S. Industrial Chemical jumped up a point right after directors declared a dividend of $1 as against $1.50 paid as a fiscal year-end dividend May 1 and 50 cents paid in February.

Slowness of trading, and the narrow movement of the stock market since its big fall Monday, all testify to the cautiousness widespread in Wall Street pending outcome of negotiations for a truce in Korea and settlement of the Anglo-Iranian dispute over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Are Drafting Plans

Washington, June 28 (AP)—American oil companies are drafting emergency plans to rush oil to western Europe if Iran's refineries and fields are shut down in the bitter controversy over nationalization. An informed American official said today the plan (now being worked out by 16 companies—with U. S. government approval—is "nearly ready to go."

Lie Encouraged

himself made no public comment since he expressed himself yesterday as hopeful.

Nasrollah Entezam, president of the General Assembly, arranged to return to Washington (10:45 a. m., EST) where he is Iranian ambassador. Lie had talks yesterday with Entezam as well as U. S., British, French, Indian and Mexican representatives to the UN.

One UN official, who declined to be quoted by name, said there should be no barrier to cease-fire discussions because of the Soviet Union's disinclination to include Communist China among the belligerents who would arrange the cease-fire. This official said the North Korean high command should be able to talk for the Chinese.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet who launched the cease-fire talk with a speech Saturday, so far has declined to discuss it further with either Entezam or Ernest A. Gross, U. S. delegate. Today Britain instructed her delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, to try to see Malik.

The Soviet Union said it had given the United States a clarification in Moscow.

Clarification Awaited

Just what the clarification was, the Moscow Foreign Office did not say, but Washington reports said the Russians told the U. S. that moves toward a cease-fire should take the form of military negotiations between the North Korean and UN field commanders.

The indications are that the Soviet Union wants to deal directly with the United States in this matter, by-passing the United Nations, and apparently the representatives of the nations fighting with the U. S. in Korea are willing, at least in the preliminary stages.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, acting for the ailing Foreign Minister A. Y. Vishinsky, gave U. S. Ambassador Kirk yesterday "explanations of the questions he asked," the Soviet ministry announced. Kirk sent the word on to Washington and informally told the British and French about the clarification, a Moscow dispatch said.

Would Leave Out Chinese

Negotiations between the North Koreans and the UN command in the field would leave out the Chinese Communists in cease-fire dickering. The possibility is being discussed here that Russia is seeking a way of saving face for the Chinese. Moscow and Peiping have insisted that the Chinese fighting in Korea are volunteers. Thus if the North Koreans accepted a cease-fire, the volunteers could go home, and "face," important in the Orient, would be saved for the Chinese and the Russians, too.

The belief was growing in UN circles that Moscow was deliberately withholding instructions to its delegation here so that talks would be carried on in Moscow—meaning the UN would be bypassed and the USSR and the U. S. would make the arrangements, if any.

The 16 nations fighting with the UN in Korea expressed their willingness in a statement yesterday to "take part in action designed to bring about a genuine and enduring peace in Korea." But they also want guarantees that the Red Chinese would get out and stay out of Korea.

This was expressed clearly by U. S. Secretary of State Acheson. He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington yesterday that if a cease-fire could be arranged, the "greatest guarantee" against new aggression would be the withdrawal of Chinese troops beyond the Yalu river boundary between Korea and Manchuria.

Efforts here to get clarification of cease-fire terms from Russia's delegate, Jacob Malik, failed. Malik broached the cease-fire idea originally Saturday in a UN radio broadcast.

Further Delay Is Met

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee has encountered further delay in efforts to determine the future of its already lengthy investigation of former Lt. Joe R. Hanley of New York. The committee is awaiting the recommendations of a two-man subcommittee as to what it thinks should be done concerning the inquiry.

Questioned

Arthur Chesler, 31, of Succasunna, N. J., who, detectives said, admitted two daring and successful robberies of the jewelry firm of Schlumberger, Inc., in New York, that netted about $220,000 in loot, sits handcuffed to a chair in the East 51st street police station, New York, June 26, after he had been seized by detectives. On the desk are two guns found in his car at the time of his arrest.

Suspended

Denis D. Delaney (above), Collector of Internal Revenue for the Massachusetts district, has been suspended by President Truman according to an announcement from Washington, June 27. The White House statement said Delaney was suspended "pending the investigation of certain charges concerning the manner in which Mr. Delaney has conducted the business of his office." Are Drafting Plans

Washington, June 28 (AP)—American oil companies are drafting emergency plans to rush oil to western Europe if Iran's refineries and fields are shut down in the bitter controversy over nationalization. An informed American official said today the plan now being worked out by 16 companies—with U. S. government approval—is "nearly ready to go."

Lie Encouraged

himself made no public comment since he expressed himself yesterday as hopeful.

Nasrollah Entezam, president of the General Assembly, arranged to return to Washington (10:45 a. m., EST) where he is Iranian ambassador. Lie had talks yesterday with Entezam as well as U. S., British, French, Indian and Mexican representatives to the UN.

One UN official, who declined to be quoted by name, said there should be no barrier to cease-fire discussions because of the Soviet Union's disinclination to include Communist China among the belligerents who would arrange the cease-fire. This official said the North Korean high command should be able to talk for the Chinese.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet who launched the cease-fire talk with a speech Saturday, so far has declined to discuss it further with either Entezam or Ernest A. Gross, U. S. delegate. Today Britain instructed her delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, to try to see Malik.

The Soviet Union said it had given the United States a clarification in Moscow.

Clarification Awaited

Just what the clarification was, the Moscow Foreign Office did not say, but Washington reports said the Russians told the U. S. that moves toward a cease-fire should take the form of military negotiations between the North Korean and UN field commanders.

The indications are that the Soviet Union wants to deal directly with the United States in this matter, by-passing the United Nations, and apparently the representatives of the nations fighting with the U. S. in Korea are willing, at least in the preliminary stages.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, acting for the ailing Foreign Minister A. Y. Vishinsky, gave U. S. Ambassador Kirk yesterday "explanations of the questions he asked," the Soviet ministry announced. Kirk sent the word on to Washington and informally told the British and French about the clarification, a Moscow dispatch said.

Would Leave Out Chinese

Negotiations between the North Koreans and the UN command in the field would leave out the Chinese Communists in cease-fire dickering. The possibility is being discussed here that Russia is seeking a way of saving face for the Chinese. Moscow and Peiping have insisted that the Chinese fighting in Korea are volunteers. Thus if the North Koreans accepted a cease-fire, the volunteers could go home, and "face," important in the Orient, would be saved for the Chinese and the Russians, too.

The belief was growing in UN circles that Moscow was deliberately withholding instructions to its delegation here so that talks would be carried on in Moscow—meaning the UN would be bypassed and the USSR and the U. S. would make the arrangements, if any.

The 16 nations fighting with the UN in Korea expressed their willingness in a statement yesterday to "take part in action designed to bring about a genuine and enduring peace in Korea." But they also want guarantees that the Red Chinese would get out and stay out of Korea.

This was expressed clearly by U. S. Secretary of State Acheson. He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington yesterday that if a cease-fire could be arranged, the "greatest guarantee" against new aggression would be the withdrawal of Chinese troops beyond the Yalu river boundary between Korea and Manchuria.

Efforts here to get clarification of cease-fire terms from Russia's delegate, Jacob Malik, failed. Malik broached the cease-fire idea originally Saturday in a UN radio broadcast.

Further Delay Is Met

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee has encountered further delay in efforts to determine the future of its already lengthy investigation of former Lt. Joe R. Hanley of New York. The committee is awaiting the recommendations of a two-man subcommittee as to what it thinks should be done concerning the inquiry.

Questioned

Arthur Chesler, 31, of Succasunna, N. J., who, detectives said, admitted two daring and successful robberies of the jewelry firm of Schlumberger, Inc., in New York, that netted about $220,000 in loot, sits handcuffed to a chair in the East 51st street police station, New York, June 26, after he had been seized by detectives. On the desk are two guns found in his car at the time of his arrest.

Suspended

Denis D. Delaney (above), Collector of Internal Revenue for the Massachusetts district, has been suspended by President Truman according to an announcement from Washington, June 27. The White House statement said Delaney was suspended "pending the investigation of certain charges concerning the manner in which Mr. Delaney has conducted the business of his office." Annual Report Is Given Rotary Club; Dykstra President

James P. Byrne gave his annual report as president of the Kingston Rotary Club, reviewing the activities of the local service club during his term of office.

Following the report, the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, president for the coming fiscal year, assumed office.

Rotary President Byrne reported in part as follows:

Fifty-two weeks ago you started your president off on his job with the finest group of officers and directors the head of an organization could desire — with Dean Dykstra as vice president; Harry Edson, secretary; Emil Boessneck, treasurer; Ernie Steuding, yearly program chairman; your pianist, Sam Scudder; song leaders Art Laidlaw and George Kernochan; historians Sam and B. C. Van Ingen; and Sgt. of Arms Dick Jones, and other officials, Directors Ren Carr, Jim Connelly, Harry LeFever, Steve Hyatt, Bev. Anderson, and Earl Newberry, Clem Angstrom.

I have never been refused a helping hand by any member of the club and would like to mention just a few because of their outstanding efforts. First, let me thank a Rotarian formerly of the Kingston club, Fred Snyder, who as an idea man helped us in redesigning our letterhead and aided us with thoughts of United Nations club plans. Ernie Steuding did an excellent job as yearly program chairman and founder and editor of the monthly, Kingston Rotarian. Fred Ertel headed the committee in one of our most successful intra-club golf tournaments with over 50 in attendance from various Rotary clubs up and down the valley. Larry Bogert as governor's aide spent countless hours in assisting our excellent District Governor Garry Germain.

To each of the 12 monthly chairmen, through whose efforts your luncheons were made interesting and instructive, I extend my thanks for a job well done.

At times we all may think we are doing a good Rotarian's job, but there is a man among us who has been making your meetings more pleasant year after year without thought of acknowledgment—an act that generally culminates in bringing pleasure to some sick member or friend—by the delivery of flowers each week gratis to our club in memory. I understand, of past Rotarian Dave Burgevin. The member I refer to, of course, is past President Budd Davis.

I also want to take this opportunity to express the group's appreciation to our host member, Fred Eissler. He has always been cooperative in all respects—serves a good table—he should be highly complimented.

For some years Rotary International has requested we adopt a constitution and set of by-laws as have all other clubs, and your directors, with Jim Connelly as the brains behind the job did just that. Many hours of thought and discussion resulted in the formation of a constitution and set of by-laws which were unanimously adopted by the membership and approved by Rotary International.

At a time when there was need for Rotary information, our good Rotarian, Art Laidlaw, joined with your president in a radio broadcast to the people of our area and by citing facts and figures brought to them a true picture of what we mean when we say, "He profits most who serves best." Speaking about radio, reminds me that my administration has not been entirely satisfactory from the standpoint of a few important angles and one of them has been the lack of adequate coverage through the press.

I believe that Rotary information, not only in Kingston but throughout the world, presented through the agency of the press, will help to a great extent to promote understanding and good will among our fellow men, a condition so badly needed in the world today. Along this line of thought Rotary International advocated as a primary activity for the year that Rotary clubs in the 83 countries of the world support the United Nations. Your club did just that as a major project. We all realize that the many failures and shortcomings of that organization but, too, it has had many successes, and it is the only world-wide agency available through which some of the ideals of Rotary can be advanced. That is the promotion of international understanding, good will, and peace. This is far from being realized as yet, but World War 3 might have been on us in full force before now if it were not for the UN. And it appears to be our main hope to prevent war in the future. At least it is a rallying point for freedom loving people who might otherwise be taken over by the great "Red Father."

To locally further this objective, we attempted through publicity to inform our people of its aims by securing a representative from the UN Speakers Bureau and at a ceremony present a United Nations flag to our city and one to the club. We have also provided the high school with a subscription of one hundred copies of the ROTARY UN DIGEST which is delivered each month and used by the teachers in social studies, etc. Then the biggest project that Kingston Rotary undertook for some years was the culmination of our United Nations Program. Under the chairmanship of John Henry Martin the entire senior class of Kingston High School was Rotary sponsored on a trip to Lake Success—an excellently conceived and executed venture by the community—and to the lasting credit of Kingston Rotary. Nine bus loads of students, teachers, and Rotarians were afforded a first-hand picture of the UN in operation.

Another major project of the year carrying out of Rotary principles in our community was shouldered under the able chairmanship of Steve Hyatt. It was found that no provisions were made by the city to spread a little Christmas joy to children in the elementary schools in the form of Christmas boxes of candy. We also had the pleasure of knowing that our $100 gift to some underprivileged children of the city was stretched to the breaking point by our secretary, Harry, in providing happiness in the form of toys for those kids who would have seen a Christmas without the little pleasures which should be the heritage of every child.

Among other club activities you have made it possible for a girl from the children's home to enjoy two weeks this year at the Girl Scouts summer camp. Your Y.M.C.A. memberships for boys who could not otherwise enjoy its privileges, a practice of Rotary for many years have been provided, and the Myron J. Michael School student award and miscellaneous worthwhile emergency contributions to the youth of our city have been provided as the need arose.

Individually, Rotarians have never been found wanting in community drives and solicitations for worthy causes, and as a club they did their share.

Oh, yes, they haven't neglected the social end. Under Larry Bogert, and Jack Cook's guidance two successful ladies' nights were held. One at Broglio's and the other at Williams Lake. I hope that this ladies' night business will be continued each year.

Health for All

Water Safety

Swimming and boating are fine exercise, good fun, and among the most popular of summer sports. Water sports are safe, too, when those taking part in them practice a few rules of common sense and avoid taking chances.

No one should ever go swimming immediately after eating. It is best to wait an hour or more after a meal before going into the water. Going for a swim can also be dangerous when one is tired or overheated. A full stomach, fatigue, or extreme heat, coupled with the shock of cold water and sudden exercise, can bring on cramps or exhaustion and make the swimmer powerless in the water.

A swimmer should always have companions with him in the water so that help is near in case he needs it. Long swims are only for qualified experts and even they should never swim long distances unless somebody is following nearby with a boat.

It is a tragic fact that many people are drowned while trying to save someone else. Anyone who swims often should learn the techniques of life-saving so that he can take care of himself as well as others if the occasion should ever arise.

Small boats like canoes, rowboats, and motor boats are safe as well as enjoyable when people use them know how to handle them and exercise a little caution.

Passengers, as well as pilots, should know how to swim before they get out into deep water in small boats. But enforced swimming on a boating trip can be avoided when the boat is managed properly and passengers know how to behave.

A small boat that is overloaded or off-balance is apt to tip over most easily. Passengers should be reminded to enter the boat by stepping in the center and, once they are seated, to stay where they are and sit still.

Changing seats in a small boat, or even just standing up, can be dangerous. If the boat does tip over, passengers should cling to it and wait for help, if possible.

Going out in a small boat when a storm is coming up is looking for trouble. Anyone who is out on the water when a storm breaks or threatens should head immediately for shore instead of staying out in the hope that it will "blow over."

Most swimming and boating accidents can be avoided. A person can get the most out of both sports if he uses common sense and makes safety first the rule in and on the water.

Annual Report Is Given Rotary Club; Dykstra President

James P. Byrne gave his annual report as president of the Kingston Rotary Club, reviewing the activities of the local service club during his term of office.

Following the report, the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, president for the coming fiscal year, assumed office.

Rotary President Byrne reported in part as follows:

Fifty-two weeks ago you started your president off on his job with the finest group of officers and directors the head of an organization could desire — with Dean Dykstra as vice president; Harry Edson, secretary; Emil Boessneck, treasurer; Ernie Steuding, yearly program chairman; your pianist, Sam Scudder; song leaders Art Laidlaw and George Kernochan; historians Sam and B. C. Van Ingen; and Sgt. of Arms Dick Jones, and other officials, Directors Ren Carr, Jim Connelly, Harry LeFever, Steve Hyatt, Bev. Anderson, and Earl Newberry, Clem Angstrom.

I have never been refused a helping hand by any member of the club and would like to mention just a few because of their outstanding efforts. First, let me thank a Rotarian formerly of the Kingston club, Fred Snyder, who as an idea man helped us in redesigning our letterhead and aided us with thoughts of United Nations club plans. Ernie Steuding did an excellent job as yearly program chairman and founder and editor of the monthly, Kingston Rotarian. Fred Ertel headed the committee in one of our most successful intra-club golf tournaments with over 50 in attendance from various Rotary clubs up and down the valley. Larry Bogert as governor's aide spent countless hours in assisting our excellent District Governor Garry Germain.

To each of the 12 monthly chairmen, through whose efforts your luncheons were made interesting and instructive, I extend my thanks for a job well done.

At times we all may think we are doing a good Rotarian's job, but there is a man among us who has been making your meetings more pleasant year after year without thought of acknowledgment—an act that generally culminates in bringing pleasure to some sick member or friend—by the delivery of flowers each week gratis to our club in memory, I understand, of past Rotarian Dave Burgevin. The member I refer to, of course, is past President Budd Davis.

I also want to take this opportunity to express the group's appreciation to our host member, Fred Eissler. He has always been cooperative in all respects—serves a good table—he should be highly complimented.

For some years Rotary International has requested we adopt a constitution and set of by-laws as have all other clubs, and your directors, with Jim Connelly as the brains behind the job did just that. Many hours of thought and discussion resulted in the formation of a constitution and set of by-laws which were unanimously adopted by the membership and approved by Rotary International.

At a time when there was need for Rotary information, our good Rotarian, Art Laidlaw, joined with your president in a radio broadcast to the people of our area and by citing facts and figures brought to them a true picture of what we mean when we say, "He profits most who serves best." Speaking about radio, reminds me that my administration has not been entirely satisfactory from the standpoint of a few important angles and one of them has been the lack of adequate coverage through the press.

I believe that Rotary information, not only in Kingston but throughout the world, presented through the agency of the press, will help to a great extent to promote understanding and good will among our fellow men, a condition so badly needed in the world today. Along this line of thought Rotary International advocated as a primary activity for the year that Rotary clubs in the 83 countries of the world support the United Nations. Your club did just that as a major project. We all realize that the many failures and shortcomings of that organization but, too, it has had many successes, and it is the only world-wide agency available through which some of the ideals of Rotary can be advanced. That is the promotion of international understanding, good will, and peace. This is far from being realized as yet, but World War 3 might have been on us in full force before now if it were not for the UN. And it appears to be our main hope to prevent war in the future. At least it is a rallying point for freedom loving people who might otherwise be taken over by the great "Red Father."

To locally further this objective, we attempted through publicity to inform our people of its aims by securing a representative from the UN Speakers Bureau and at a ceremony present a United Nations flag to our city and one to the club. We have also provided the high school with a subscription of one hundred copies of the ROTARY UN DIGEST which is delivered each month and used by the teachers in social studies, etc. Then the biggest project that Kingston Rotary undertook for some years was the culmination of our United Nations Program. Under the chairmanship of John Henry Martin the entire senior class of Kingston High School was Rotary sponsored on a trip to Lake Success—an excellently conceived and executed venture by the community—and to the lasting credit of Kingston Rotary. Nine bus loads of students, teachers, and Rotarians were afforded a first-hand picture of the UN in operation.

Another major project of the year carrying out of Rotary principles in our community was shouldered under the able chairmanship of Steve Hyatt. It was found that no provisions were made by the city to spread a little Christmas joy to children in the elementary schools in the form of Christmas boxes of candy. We also had the pleasure of knowing that our $100 gift to some underprivileged children of the city was stretched to the breaking point by our secretary, Harry, in providing happiness in the form of toys for those kids who would have seen a Christmas without the little pleasures which should be the heritage of every child.

Among other club activities you have made it possible for a girl from the children's home to enjoy two weeks this year at the Girl Scouts summer camp. Your Y.M.C.A. memberships for boys who could not otherwise enjoy its privileges, a practice of Rotary for many years have been provided, and the Myron J. Michael School student award and miscellaneous worthwhile emergency contributions to the youth of our city have been provided as the need arose.

Individually, Rotarians have never been found wanting in community drives and solicitations for worthy causes, and as a club they did their share.

Oh, yes, they haven't neglected the social end. Under Larry Bogert, and Jack Cook's guidance two successful ladies' nights were held. One at Broglio's and the other at Williams Lake. I hope that this ladies' night business will be continued each year.

Water Safety

Swimming and boating are fine exercise, good fun, and among the most popular of summer sports. Water sports are safe, too, when those taking part in them practice a few rules of common sense and avoid taking chances.

No one should ever go swimming immediately after eating. It is best to wait an hour or more after a meal before going into the water. Going for a swim can also be dangerous when one is tired or overheated. A full stomach, fatigue, or extreme heat, coupled with the shock of cold water and sudden exercise, can bring on cramps or exhaustion and make the swimmer powerless in the water.

A swimmer should always have companions with him in the water so that help is near in case he needs it. Long swims are only for qualified experts and even they should never swim long distances unless somebody is following nearby with a boat.

It is a tragic fact that many people are drowned while trying to save someone else. Anyone who swims often should learn the techniques of life-saving so that he can take care of himself as well as others if the occasion should ever arise.

Small boats like canoes, rowboats, and motor boats are safe as well as enjoyable when people use them know how to handle them and exercise a little caution.

Passengers, as well as pilots, should know how to swim before they get out into deep water in small boats. But enforced swimming on a boating trip can be avoided when the boat is managed properly and passengers know how to behave.

A small boat that is overloaded or off-balance is apt to tip over most easily. Passengers should be reminded to enter the boat by stepping in the center and, once they are seated, to stay where they are and sit still.

Changing seats in a small boat, or even just standing up, can be dangerous. If the boat does tip over, passengers should cling to it and wait for help, if possible.

Going out in a small boat when a storm is coming up is looking for trouble. Anyone who is out on the water when a storm breaks or threatens should head immediately for shore instead of staying out in the hope that it will "blow over."

Most swimming and boating accidents can be avoided. A person can get the most out of both sports if he uses common sense and makes safety first the rule in and on the water.

Israel Grows Flax

Jerusalem (AP)—There was another "first" in Israel — this time the first harvest of flax, the Hebrew University's School of Agriculture has announced. With Israel government support, the school has for a number of years been experimenting with the growing of flax specimens sent to Israel from various parts of the world.

WE REMEMBER GRANDMA

GRANDMA loved to reminisce. One of her favorite subjects was, of course, we children and, particularly my first "love" affair.

Phoebe was her name, and the thing about her that intrigued me most was her fishing prowess.

She would take her own fish off the hook, and not only that, would put on the worm.

Phoebe and I spent a lot of time fishing that summer. Grandma would pack us a lunch . . . cookies, home-made bread sandwiches filled with the baked beans she had baked the day before, and a bottle filled with lemonade or milk. Such fun we had sitting side by side, savoring each delicious bite as we fished.

Well, the next summer Phoebe lost her desire to bait hooks so, small boy like, I lost my desire for Phoebe.

But Grandma said my insatiable desire to fish and eat bean sandwiches never slacked off a bit.

Certain hands are types that every experienced player should recognize at once. Today's hand for example, should be a matter of routine to a good bridge player.

South wins the first heart trick and returns the queen of diamonds at once. This gives the opponents a choice of defenses—both equally bad.

If the defenders return trumps, declarer gets a free finesse and can probably (with normal distribution) draw the trumps and then develop the diamonds. Normally, the hand should then lose two diamond tricks but nothing else.

If the defenders fail to return trumps, South is ready to cross-ruff. For example, suppose West takes the ace of diamonds and returns a heart. Dummy wins with the king of hearts and an attempt is made to cash the king of diamonds.

This attempt fails when East ruffs with a low trump. South calmly over-ruffs and cashes the ace of clubs to discard dummy's last heart. Then South ruffs a heart in dummy.

Now dummy leads another diamond, and South ruffs, while East discards a club. South now ruffs a club in dummy with the eight of spades and returns to his hand by ruffing a diamond for the third time. East discards his last club on this trick.

South leads another club, but must make sure to ruff with dummy's ace. East, left with only trumps, must vainly under-ruff. Then South's king of spades is good for his tenth trick.

It is interesting to note that South would lose his contract if he tried to ruff with the jack of spades. East would over-ruff with the queen and would return a trump, felling the ace and king of trumps on the same trick.

Red Names Must Be Right

Vienna, (AP)—Diapers for infant Communists shouldn't bear the name "OK", and perfume shouldn't be called "Old Lavender", a Budapest newspaper told its readers recently. The Communist government publication "Fuggetlen Magyarorszag" said that Western names like these should be banned from Budapest shop windows. "The disappearance of these terms should be part of the fight for peace," the newspaper said.

Attorney Plans To File Petition On Salary Raises

Attorney Frank Martocci, who is representing the local policemen and firemen in their move to obtain a referendum on the question of proposed salary increases, said today he plans to file the petition by Saturday or Monday.

Personnel of both departments began circulating copies of the petition Tuesday to obtain the names of resident voters. They need 10 per cent of the total number who voted at the last gubernatorial election which is a minimum of approximately 1,500 names.

Attorney Martocci said today that the men were receiving satisfactory response in obtaining signatures. The petition has to be on record by next week to meet the legal deadline date for filing before the election next Nov. 6.

The increases asked for would mean roughly about $700 a man for members of the department, in some cases slightly less and in others slightly more. The salaries asked for include $4,610 for both the police and fire chiefs; $3,950 for deputy fire chiefs, and police lieutenants; $3,730 for police sergeants; $3,350 for patrolmen and the same for firemen. The proposal also asks for five increments of $120 for each year of service.

Men of both departments decided on joint action for the referendum after both the police and fire boards failed to act on bids for salary boosts earlier this year. The men won salary increases by referendum in 1947.

Says Gate Hit Car

Mrs. Ethel Bushnell, of Furnace street, notified police at 10:30 p. m. yesterday that a gate of the Foxhall avenue railroad crossing struck her car as she was driving over the crossing. The top of the car was damaged and the gate was broken, she said.

Car Insurance Change Noted

Effective July 1, 1951, all minors, persons under 21 years of age, are required to carry insurance on all cars licensed, and to present a statement from their insurance carrier (MV Form JR1) showing that a policy has been issued. The policy itself is not sufficient and cannot be accepted by the Motor Vehicle Bureau. Insurance agents are required to furnish this form JR1. They are not available at the Motor Vehicle Bureau office.

All applications, senior as well as junior, must show the age of the applicant in the space provided. "Over twenty-one" or "legal age" is not acceptable.

world be deceived by the searching review given our global strategy." It added:

"If those who threaten us take only a tyrant's lesson from differences among free men and mistake the temper of our people, they can plunge the world into war. But it would be a war they could never win and which would bring them to ultimate destruction."

Openly pleased by approval of the statement by Republicans as well as Democratic members of the committee, Russell told reporters the group will meet in 10 days or so to decide (1) whether to call any more witnesses, and (2) what to do about a formal report, or reports. Then he added:

"I am finding surprising sentiment in the committee against undertaking to write a formal report. I don't mean to say it represents a majority, but I have had at least five or six of the 26 members tell me their feeling is against issuing a report.

"The sentiment seems to be strong that the committee has put the facts before the people. Under the Democratic process, the people can approve or disapprove of what has been done."

Americans Are

Korean Communists and U.N. military commanders.

Kirk reported his questions and Gromyko's replies to the State Department late yesterday.

Meanwhile, representatives of the 16 United Nations fighting in Korea met at the department and declared their readiness to join in peace "action" provided it was designed to produce a "genuine and enduring" Korean settlement.

But at the same time they insisted settlement of disputes by peaceful means must be achieved in such a way that "international peace and security and justice are not endangered."

Auto Layoffs Begin

Detroit, June 28 (AP)—The auto industry, pinched both by materials shortages and credit controls, today began large scale layoffs. At least 33,000 workers are to be dismissed for indefinite periods, with tens of thousands of others scheduled to follow later in the year. Some of these shutdowns, however, will be of short duration. The mounting dismissals brought from the CIO United Auto Workers Union a demand for "speeding up" defense work in plants now being hit by materials shortages.

Attorney Plans To File Petition On Salary Raises

Attorney Frank Martocci, who is representing the local policemen and firemen in their move to obtain a referendum on the question of proposed salary increases, said today he plans to file the petition by Saturday or Monday.

Personnel of both departments began circulating copies of the petition Tuesday to obtain the names of resident voters. They need 10 per cent of the total number who voted at the last gubernatorial election which is a minimum of approximately 1,500 names.

Attorney Martocci said today that the men were receiving satisfactory response in obtaining signatures. The petition has to be on record by next week to meet the legal deadline date for filing before the election next Nov. 6.

The increases asked for would mean roughly about $700 a man for members of the department, in some cases slightly less and in others slightly more. The salaries asked for include $4,610 for both the police and fire chiefs; $3,950 for deputy fire chiefs, and police lieutenants; $3,730 for police sergeants; $3,350 for patrolmen and the same for firemen. The proposal also asks for five increments of $120 for each year of service.

Men of both departments decided on joint action for the referendum after both the police and fire boards failed to act on bids for salary boosts earlier this year. The men won salary increases by referendum in 1947.

Says Gate Hit Car

Mrs. Ethel Bushnell, of Furnace street, notified police at 10:30 p. m. yesterday that a gate of the Foxhall avenue railroad crossing struck her car as she was driving over the crossing. The top of the car was damaged and the gate was broken, she said.

Car Insurance Change Noted

Effective July 1, 1951, all minors, persons under 21 years of age, are required to carry insurance on all cars licensed, and to present a statement from their insurance carrier (MV Form JR1) showing that a policy has been issued. The policy itself is not sufficient and cannot be accepted by the Motor Vehicle Bureau. Insurance agents are required to furnish this form JR1. They are not available at the Motor Vehicle Bureau office.

All applications, senior as well as junior, must show the age of the applicant in the space provided. "Over twenty-one" or "legal age" is not acceptable.

The JR1 form which is supplied by the insurance carrier must be attached to the application blank at the time the application for registration is made.

New Church at Boiceville to Be Blessed Sunday

The new mission church of Our Lady of La-Salette, of Boiceville, will be solemnly blessed Sunday, July 1, at 10:30 a. m. A pontifical high Mass will follow.

The church is situated across from the new public school now under construction. Architect of the newly-built church was Augustus Schrowang, of Kingston, while Joseph Schatzel, also of Kingston, was the contractor.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, will perform the solemn service of dedication. The Rt. Rev. Henry O'Carroll, Newburgh, dean of Orange and Rockland counties, will offer the pontifical Mass, the first Mass celebrated in the new church.

May Discard Records

Albany, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—Local officials may discard public records that have no further value, beginning Sunday. But, they must have permission from the state education commissioner. A law permitting local officials to throw away records that no longer are needed was passed last winter by the Legislature. Commissioner Lewis A. Wilson said he wanted to preserve records "important for historical research purposes."

Expression Is Ruled Out

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The slang expression "GI" has been ruled out for army public relations officers. They'll have to refer to a soldier as a soldier. In ordering this in liaison bulletin 242 of the army public information division, issued June 15, the army said: "The term soldier is ancient and honorable. Webster's dictionary defines a soldier as 'a skilled warrior.' And never before in history has a soldier so richly deserved this definition . . ."

New Church at Boiceville to Be Blessed Sunday

The new mission church of Our Lady of La-Salette, of Boiceville, will be solemnly blessed Sunday, July 1, at 10:30 a. m. A pontifical high Mass will follow.

The church is situated across from the new public school now under construction. Architect of the newly-built church was Augustus Schrowang, of Kingston, while Joseph Schatzel, also of Kingston, was the contractor.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, will perform the solemn service of dedication. The Rt. Rev. Henry O'Carroll, Newburgh, dean of Orange and Rockland counties, will offer the pontifical Mass, the first Mass celebrated in the new church.

May Discard Records

Albany, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—Local officials may discard public records that have no further value, beginning Sunday. But, they must have permission from the state education commissioner. A law permitting local officials to throw away records that no longer are needed was passed last winter by the Legislature. Commissioner Lewis A. Wilson said he wanted to preserve records "important for historical research purposes."

Expression Is Ruled Out

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The slang expression "GI" has been ruled out for army public relations officers. They'll have to refer to a soldier as a soldier. In ordering this in liaison bulletin 242 of the army public information division, issued June 15, the army said: "The term soldier is ancient and honorable. Webster's dictionary defines a soldier as 'a skilled warrior.' And never before in history has a soldier so richly deserved this definition . . ."

Muffin Biters on Job

London (AP) — Two London librarians have become official muffin biters to Sherlock Holmes. Their duties take them to a Sherlock Holmes exhibition organized as part of the Festival of Britain on the site of 221B Baker street, storied residence of the sleuth and Doctor Watson. Many visitors to the exhibition took exception to pieces of half-eaten buttered toast which lay on the tea plates, presumably by Holmes and Watson when called out on an urgent case. The toast was all wrong. Favorite tea of Holmes and his assistant was toasted muffins.

That's the reason the "Central Council of the National Union of Israel Students" has decided to boycott the "Third Youth Festival of the World Federation of Democratic Youth and International Union of Students" which will open in East Berlin in August.

Alcoholism Moves To Be Coordinated

New York, June 28 (AP)—Various efforts to combat alcoholism in New York state will be coordinated by the newly-formed Committee on Alcoholism.

The chairman, Attorney Harold Riegelman, estimates there are 700,000 chronic alcoholics in the state.

And he says New York is lagging far behind many other states in providing facilities for treating the alcoholics.

The unofficial committee was set up yesterday at a closed meeting of representatives of medical and bar associations and public officials.

The committee's purpose, Riegelman said, is "to have groups interested in the problem pull together through a single spokesman, and to make sure that any proposed legislation is fitted to the difficulties faced by the state."

The Legislature, he said, will be asked to establish a temporary committee to investigate the problem of alcoholism and made recommendations to the Legislature.

Riegelman praised the work of such private organizations as Alcoholics Anonymous, but he said governmental action is needed.

LOVE FINDS A WAY—Four-year-old Judy Ann Goral, of Cleveland, Ohio, loves her Grandpa. He's her pal and has spent most of his leisure time building her a swing, a playhouse, a merry-go-round and she has forgotten how many toys. So, when he had to go to the hospital on the eve of his 62d birthday, Judy was upset. She tried many times to visit him, but her age barred her. Finally she went home and, with an assist from her mother, worked out her inspiration. With it she rushed back to the hospital and, as seen at right, was able to wish him a happy birthday after all. Looking down at her from the hospital-room window Grandpa said: "That's my girl."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I saw Ivar Jungquist walking along Broadway the other day and remembered when we used to meet at Lodge on Albany avenue twice a month. His late wife and Mrs. Lencke always sat together, now both ladies are gone. It just happened that I ran across an item by H. L. Van Deusen in "At Century's Turn" covering incidents of 1898, over a half century ago. At that time Mr. Jungquist worked for the Cornell Shops on The Strand and was known as a "Strong Man." It is said, he lifted a steel beam weighing all of 2,200 pounds. For this feat, he used a specially constructed harness which had been made for him by the late George Main, who at that time had a harness shop in Rondout. I once asked Mr. Jungquist about it, but he just smiled in his modest way. As far as I know, no one has topped that record and even if anyone locally lifted 2,000 pounds within the last half century I have never heard about it.

Today's comic picture books are quick reading, for the pictures take up most of the space. "A thin book for a thin dime." Back in my days, we read stories like "Pluck and Luck," "Nick Carter" and such and I think we paid five cents for them. We'd exchange them with our friends. I liked the success stories of poor boys and some of the adventures. There was always a good plot, with good winning over bad. Many of the boys who exchanged those success story books with me, followed those examples, in school and in the outside world and today are successful professional men. P. Lutzin once told me that he had a boy come in every day after school to run errands for him and I think he paid him one or two dollars for the full week. I know my father had a boy come in right after school, and I think all day Saturday and he started at $1.50 a week. In those days, most things in a drug store came in bulk and so the boy spent hours filling smaller bags and boxes with various salts and othem items. They had to be labeled and properly closed. He had many more chores besides and not much chance to see comic books for he was going to high school, and as I remember was on the football team. I don't know how he had time for everything, but he did and today has achieved success in his chosen profession in New York city.

In those days it was the fashion to work after school. It seemed that every youngster old enough to ride a bicycle worked for someone somewhere after school. Employers were strict taking no nonsense from the youngsters, perhaps that made it easier for the school teacher. For instance, Dr. Kennedy's Remedy on the Strand, employed several young boys to paste on labels. I wrote about them several weeks ago. They became successful men in their own right. Girls of 12 or so went out to do housework and they too were steady and efficient. Baby sitters weren't too popular in those days of big families for there was always someone of the immediate family to sit home. Also folks lived together in groups more, now every young couple wants an apartment of its own immediately. I wonder what the changes will be 50 years hence.

Of the 400 full length motion pictures released in the United States during 1950, one quarter were in color.

Insurance Law Effective Sunday

Albany, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—Under New York's "semi-compulsory" automobile liability insurance law, you must double the minimum coverage beginning Sunday.

New York doesn't require you to carry automobile insurance, but after you have an accident you lose your license unless you can prove "financial responsibility"—usually with insurance.

Beginning Sunday, you must carry $10,000 coverage for injury or death of one person and $20,000 for injury or death of two or more in any one accident.

The present minimum is $5,000 and $10,000.

The $5,000 property damage requirement remains unchanged under the new law, adopted by the 1951 Legislature and signed by Governor Dewey.

The state's only compulsory car insurance law becomes effective Sunday also.

Under it, car owners under 21 will not be issued registration plates unless they have a "five-and-ten" ($5,000-$10,000; liability policy. After the first accident, the "ten-twenty-five" requirement applies to them also.

The compulsory insurance provision actually won't apply to minor owners who already have plates until they seek new ones next winter.

However, they are not exempt from any financial responsibility requirements if they have an accident in the meantime.

Alcoholism Moves To Be Coordinated

New York, June 28 (AP)—Various efforts to combat alcoholism in New York state will be coordinated by the newly-formed Committee on Alcoholism.

The chairman, Attorney Harold Riegelman, estimates there are 700,000 chronic alcoholics in the state.

And he says New York is lagging far behind many other states in providing facilities for treating the alcoholics.

The unofficial committee was set up yesterday at a closed meeting of representatives of medical and bar associations and public officials.

The committee's purpose, Riegelman said, is "to have groups interested in the problem pull together through a single spokesman, and to make sure that any proposed legislation is fitted to the difficulties faced by the state."

The Legislature, he said, will be asked to establish a temporary committee to investigate the problem of alcoholism and made recommendations to the Legislature.

Riegelman praised the work of such private organizations as Alcoholics Anonymous, but he said governmental action is needed.

LOVE FINDS A WAY—Four-year-old Judy Ann Goral, of Cleveland, Ohio, loves her Grandpa. He's her pal and has spent most of his leisure time building her a swing, a playhouse, a merry-go-round and she has forgotten how many toys. So, when he had to go to the hospital on the eve of his 62d birthday, Judy was upset. She tried many times to visit him, but her age barred her. senting his case, but he consented when the judge presented the adjournment proposal.

The adding machines were taken with telephones and other items when police raided the Chambers street place. The plaintiff's action is based on the contention that the adding machines are not classified as gambling instruments under sections of the penal law on which the men were arrested.

Other items held at police headquarters as a result of the Chambers street raid and one 10 days later at 124 North Front street include clocks, filing cabinets, switch boards and furniture. Several telephones were returned to the telephone company. No effort has been made to reclaim any of the other articles and they may be disposed of after the adding machine case is completed.

Eligibility List Not Yet Received

Martin Kelly, secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, said today that the eligibility list for making appointments to the fire department has not been received from Albany.

The results of examinations were forwarded to Albany about a month ago and the list with ratings is expected to be returned to the local commission within the next several days.

The fire department currently has one vacancy due to the recent death of Fireman John A. Carle and will have another after July 12 when Charles V. Brown, the department's supervisor of motors is scheduled to retire.

Young Republicans Meet

Boston, June 28 (AP)—Young Republicans from all 48 states met today in their biennial convention—regarded as a preview of grass roots Republican feeling for the 1952 campaign. More than 1,000 delegates and alternates were registered as the first session opened in the three-day meeting. The convention didn't know, as it started this morning whether the principal speaker of the first session, U. S. Sen. Richard Nixon (R-Calif.) would be here for the principal address of the day at the afternoon meeting.

The adding machines were taken with telephones and other items when police raided the Chambers street place. The plaintiff's action is based on the contention that the adding machines are not classified as gambling instruments under sections of the penal law on which the men were arrested.

Other items held at police headquarters as a result of the Chambers street raid and one 10 days later at 124 North Front street include clocks, filing cabinets, switch boards and furniture. Several telephones were returned to the telephone company. No effort has been made to reclaim any of the other articles and they may be disposed of after the adding machine case is completed.

Eligibility List Not Yet Received

Martin Kelly, secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, said today that the eligibility list for making appointments to the fire department has not been received from Albany.

The results of examinations were forwarded to Albany about a month ago and the list with ratings is expected to be returned to the local commission within the next several days.

The fire department currently has one vacancy due to the recent death of Fireman John A. Carle and will have another after July 12 when Charles V. Brown, the department's supervisor of motors is scheduled to retire.

Young Republicans Meet

Boston, June 28 (AP)—Young Republicans from all 48 states met today in their biennial convention—regarded as a preview of grass roots Republican feeling for the 1952 campaign. More than 1,000 delegates and alternates were registered as the first session opened in the three-day meeting. The convention didn't know, as it started this morning whether the principal speaker of the first session, U. S. Sen. Richard Nixon (R-Calif.) would be here for the principal address of the day at the afternoon meeting.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Egg prices advanced one to four cents a dozen in many stores this week, grapefruit and lemons were up slightly, and tomatoes and a few other fresh produce items were lower.

But otherwise, prices of major foods held generally unchanged from last week-end.

While the future of beef price controls was being argued in Washington, butchers reported that consumer demand for high-priced steaks and roasts continued so light that even with supplies reduced there was no real scarcity.

At New York, where major chains still are selling sirloin and other beef cuts well below legal ceilings because of consumer price resistance, the city department of markets announced a series of free public classes in low-cost menus.

"In view of the high cost of many foods, we felt it was necessary now to establish classes to assist the housewife and educate her so that she may save as much as possible in preparing daily meals," said Markets Commissioner Anthony Masciarelli.

Competition for Beef

Pork and chicken, both plentiful, continued to give beef good competition for the shopper's meat dollar. About 14 per cent more hogs were slaughtered in May than in the same month last year. And cold storage stocks of pork at the beginning of June were still almost 25 per cent larger than a year earlier.

The Poultry and Egg National Board said the biggest crop of broiler chickens of the year is about due in markets this coming week. It will include the bulk of the 12,257,000 chicks placed in broiler houses in the 12 principal production areas 12 weeks ago. The whole crop, including the chickens coming from farms, will be at least 15 per cent larger than last year's corresponding generation of chickens, the board said.

Pork roast prices in a typical retail market this week were six cents a pound higher than a year ago. Broilers were no higher. But sirloin steak was up 19 cents.

The continued rise in egg prices was blamed largely on seasonal influences: Hot weather trims production and reduces the supply of those which can be graded top quality. In addition, demand from consumers, hatcheries and the military has been brisk.

Heavy shipments of tomatoes from such important growing areas as Texas, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama pushed prices down sharply in many cities this week.

Receipts of canteloupes and melons from California and Arizona, AVL cherries from Idaho, Oregon and Washington also were increasing in distant markets, easing prices. A major nationwide store chain was planning a week-end promotion of peaches, now coming mostly from Georgia, South Carolina and California. Many markets were featuring their first nectarines, Black Mission figs, gooseberries, currants, blueberries, Thompson seedless and Cardinal grapes of the season.

Here's the Agriculture Department's national list of plentiful foods for thrifty buying in the coming month:

Potatoes and locally-grown vegetables, peaches (in the northeast, southeast and midwest), plums, lemons, limes, oranges, canned applesauce, broiler and fryer chickens, fresh and frozen fish, cottage cheese, buttermilk, peanut butter and honey.

Wholesale food prices eased off slightly this week, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index which represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 general use foods. The index at $7.02 compared with $7.07 last week, and with $6.04 a year ago (the week the Korean war began). The peak of the index in the past year was $7.31 on Feb. 20.

PATRIOTIC MARSHMALLOW DRUM

VANILLA MARSHMALLOW DRUMS and marshmallow firecrackers delight this young patriot on July 4th.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Looking for 4th of July favors the guests can eat and enjoy? Well, here's the answer—smooth patriotic drums filled with marshmallow, together with peppermint stick and maraschino cherry drum sticks.

Vanilla Mallow Drum
(Makes 6 servings)

Two egg yolks, slightly beaten, 1 cup milk, ¼ pound marshmallows (about 16 marshmallows), 2 egg whites, dash salt, ½ pint heavy cream, whipped, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 6 peppermint candy sticks (5-inch lengths), 12 maraschino cherries.

In a saucepan, combine egg yolks and milk; blend well. Add whole marshmallows. Place over low heat until mixture is slightly thickened and marshmallows are almost dissolved, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and continue stirring until marshmallows are dissolved. Chill. In a bowl, beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Fold in chilled marshmallow custard, whipped cream and vanilla. Pour mixture into six waxed paper cups (about ½ cup size.) Freeze in frozen food compartment of refrigerator until firm.

To make drumsticks: Break candy sticks into 2¼ inch lengths. Place maraschino cherry on one end of each small stick. Cross two cherry sticks on top of each frozen drum.

To make paper cup drum: With lengths of red cellophane tape, edge the rim and base of the cup. Cross strips of tape around the middle of the cup to resemble a drum. If red cellophane tape is not available, water colors or colored pencil may be used.

Firecrackers with a bang-up good taste.

Marshmallow Firecrackers
(Makes 6)

Twenty-four marshmallows, 6 peppermint candy sticks (5-inch lengths), 1½ sheets 8 x 10 red construction paper.

To make each marshmallow firecracker: With a skewer, dipped into hot water to prevent sticking, punch a hole through the centers of four marshmallows. Insert a five-inch peppermint stick through the stack of four marshmallows, arranged flat sides together. About a 1½ inch length of candy stick serves as the firecracker fuse. With a scissors, cut a 4x5 inch rectangle from a sheet of red construction paper. Wrap the rectangle around the marshmallows to form a tube and secure with Scotch tape. Stand in upright position as a firecracker.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange and lime juice, scrambled eggs with chopped chives and cheese, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, tart jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tuna and celery salad, lettuce, sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, French bread, butter or fortified margarine, gingerbread cup cakes, tea, milk.

DINNER: Clam chowder, crackers, cold cuts, potato salad, chilled tomatoes stuffed with vegetable salad, enriched rolls, butter or fortified margarine, vanilla mallow drums, iced coffee, milk.

American Legion And Auxiliary Receive Reports

Woodstock, June 28 — At a meeting of American Legion Post, 1026, in the Legion Hall Wednesday night, reports were made by the fireworks display committee concerning final plans for the show on Sunday, July 1, on the Bearsville flats. Robert Nussbaum reported that the hay on the field where the fireworks will be set and on the parking lot, will be cut in time for the event. He also said that ticket sales to date are above expectations.

The new post commander, Bert Wangler, was introduced at the meeting by the present Commander Joseph Wagner. Wangler stated that among the many thinks he hopes to accomplish is an increased membership in the Legion. He said that "if we become strong more demands will be made upon us."

Officers Installed

On the same evening the American Legion Auxiliary met and installation of the following new officers took place, with Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, past county chairman and present secretary, officiating: Mrs. George Aplustill, president; Miss Ruth Hasbrouck, vice-president; Mrs. Roger Grazier, second vice-president, and Florence Peper, treasurer.

The Auxiliary voted to send the newly elected president, Mrs. George Aplustill, to the State Auxiliary convention at the Hotel Commodore in August, and Mrs. Reuben Jansen as alternate delegate.

It was announced that the Auxiliary will be in charge of the refreshment stand for the fireworks show on July 1.

As their contribution to the Americanism program, 38 hours of work were devoted to the Brownies by Mrs. Alice Wolven, who is one of the new scout leaders, and flag codes were distributed to the different schools in the township.

Contributions Listed

A report was made on the Auxiliary's various contributions which were as follows: $593.40 spent for the rehabilitation of veterans; $5 donated to the Cerebral Palsy fund of Ulster county, announced by Mrs. William Klippel; $59 to the American Legion Mountain Camp at Tupper Lake; $29.70 spent on cards and flowers during the past year, reported by the chaplain; $283.40 in the child welfare program for the aid of children of veterans and non-veterans; $5 to the National Security program for cigarettes for boys in Korea; $338 worth of used clothing sent to Europe; and $55 donated to various causes. Work totaling 26 hours was devoted to community drives.

In the coupon drive the Auxiliary collected 2620 regular coupons and 887 miscellaneous coupons.

At the end of May 500 poppies were sold with a total amount received of $78.33.

During the meeting the past president, Mrs. Reuben Jansen, read a report and thanked all members and chairmen for their work in the past year.

Supper July 14

Upon assuming the chair, Mrs. Aplustil appointed Mrs. Irwin Holumzer as chairman of the annual cafeteria supper and bazaar, to be held at the Legion Hall on July 14, details to be announced later.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, secretary, and Miss Florence Peper, treasurer, in recognition of their many years of service to the auxiliary.

Semmler Finishes 26 Programs for Voice of America

Woodstock, June 28—Alexander Semmler, composer, conductor and pianist, who has been a resident of Zena for many years, has been working on a series of recorded programs for the Voice of America, since the beginning of the year. So far he has completed 26 programs—programs designed to introduce serious forms of American music to the peoples abroad, with as great a variety of contemporary work included as possible.

Semmler took great care in selecting his program material, and in his commentary always gave an intimate picture of the composer, his personality and his work. Frequently the composer appeared on the program and was personally interviewed by Semmler. For added interest Semmler often gave a thorough analysis of the work presented and elucidated the musical structure of the composition through piano illustrations. The program material was derived from the wealth of the record library of the Voice of America, accumulated during recent years with the cooperation of the American Federation of Musicians, the radio networks, musicians and music publishers.

The programs are broadcast by short wave all over the world as well as via long wave from platters distributed to 100 key stations around the globe.

American jazz music has taken pre-eminence everywhere over other forms, and the aim of this series, according to Semmler, is to bring to the attention of other countries our own rich creative output of serious music.

Creative Period

"A popular belief in this country," he observed, "is that there is no American art. Actually we are going through a highly creative period which is producing works that may long outlive our accomplishments in the field of industrial production records. Possibly only England can compare today with the high creative musical productivity in the United States."

"Many other nations," he continued, "publicize their composers and support them in their creative endeavors. If we had as much confidence in our composers as most other nations have, we would hear a great deal more about them; if we would have faith in our artists, we would then see that our cultural achievements are as great, if not greater, than those in any other country."

Praises Woodstock Music

Criticizing music provided by the radio in general, he feels that it appeals to a rather mediocre taste, catering to what is usually termed the demands of the public, and in addition too much of music in radio and television is recorded music which displaces live musicians.

Although Woodstock is known as an artists' colony, Semmler is happy that the community has such an exceptional amount of good music during the summer months. He would like to see other localities take a similar interest in live music and musicians.

Semmler is not in accordance with the importance placed upon the first performance of new works. One performance is not enough to prove the merit of a composition.

"Give me a work is good enough to have been played 10 times," he declared, "and I will go anywhere to try to listen to it."

The new Voice of America programs will be in part an answer to the question posed by many European musicians, who know our jazz and some of our American folk music—"What else do you have?"

Plan Good Parking

Woodstock, June 28—The American Legion fireworks display committee has arranged for ample parking space on the Bearsville Flats, for the convenience of visitors who will witness the show on Sunday, June 30, beginning at 8 p. m. A system of traffic control, inaugurated last year, has been perfected by the traffic committee from Post 1026 working in cooperation with the state police, that will make possible an easy and quick dispersal of the automobiles from the parking areas.

Art Show Contains Festive Atmosphere

Woodstock, June 28—The first show group of the season of the Woodstock Artists Association, opened last Saturday afternoon at the Art Gallery with a well-rounded exhibition likely to enliven the holiday of the summer visitors already in the village. It is a good summer show in that much of the subject matter contains a festive atmosphere, Peggy Dodds' gay and whimsical Little Carnival, Jenne Magafan's linear and colorful Barn with Posters, and Alex Redein's vibrant Cape Landscape.

Andree Reullan's Man With Monkey, is a subtle and delightful item, and a striking still-life has been contributed by Daniel Revzan whose paintings possess structural soundness as well as richness of color.

The exhibition will remain at the gallery to July 4.

Woodstock Gallery Officers Are Elected

Woodstock, June 28—At a meeting of the Artist Realty Company, Inc., owners of the Woodstock Art Gallery, the following officers for the coming year were elected: Norbert Heerman, president; Rodney Lethbridge, vice-president; Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, honorary vice-president; Florence Webster, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Pat Collins, assistant secretary. Belmont Towbin will be in charge of the committee for the sale of stock in the Artists Realty Company. Albert Heckman will serve as chairman of the finance committee. The board of directors will consist of the above-named officers and Mrs. Charles Rosen, gallery manager.

During the meeting a report was made by the president concerning the new stockholders, and a report was also given on the latest gallery improvements.

American Legion And Auxiliary Receive Reports

Woodstock, June 28 — At a meeting of American Legion Post, 1026, in the Legion Hall Wednesday night, reports were made by the fireworks display committee concerning final plans for the show on Sunday, July 1, on the Bearsville flats. Robert Nussbaum reported that the hay on the field where the fireworks will be set and on the parking lot, will be cut in time for the event. He also said that ticket sales to date are above expectations.

The new post commander, Bert Wangler, was introduced at the meeting by the present Commander Joseph Wagner. Wangler stated that among the many thinks he hopes to accomplish is an increased membership in the Legion. He said that "if we become strong more demands will be made upon us."

Officers Installed

On the same evening the American Legion Auxiliary met and installation of the following new officers took place, with Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, past county chairman and present secretary, officiating: Mrs. George Aplustill, president; Miss Ruth Hasbrouck, vice-president; Mrs. Roger Grazier, second vice-president, and Florence Peper, treasurer.

The Auxiliary voted to send the newly elected president, Mrs. George Aplustill, to the State Auxiliary convention at the Hotel Commodore in August, and Mrs. Reuben Jansen as alternate delegate.

It was announced that the Auxiliary will be in charge of the refreshment stand for the fireworks show on July 1.

As their contribution to the Americanism program, 38 hours of work were devoted to the Brownies by Mrs. Alice Wolven, who is one of the new scout leaders, and flag codes were distributed to the different schools in the township.

Contributions Listed

A report was made on the Auxiliary's various contributions which were as follows: $593.40 spent for the rehabilitation of veterans; $5 donated to the Cerebral Palsy fund of Ulster county, announced by Mrs. William Klippel; $59 to the American Legion Mountain Camp at Tupper Lake; $29.70 spent on cards and flowers during the past year, reported by the chaplain; $283.40 in the child welfare program for the aid of children of veterans and non-veterans; $5 to the National Security program for cigarettes for boys in Korea; $338 worth of used clothing sent to Europe; and $55 donated to various causes. Work totaling 26 hours was devoted to community drives.

In the coupon drive the Auxiliary collected 2620 regular coupons and 887 miscellaneous coupons.

At the end of May 500 poppies were sold with a total amount received of $78.33.

During the meeting the past president, Mrs. Reuben Jansen, read a report and thanked all members and chairmen for their work in the past year.

Supper July 14

Upon assuming the chair, Mrs. Aplustil appointed Mrs. Irwin Holumzer as chairman of the annual cafeteria supper and bazaar, to be held at the Legion Hall on July 14, details to be announced later.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, secretary, and Miss Florence Peper, treasurer, in recognition of their many years of service to the auxiliary.

Chairmen for the food table at the Market Fair food table are as follows: Mrs. Roger Grazier, July 7; Mrs. Reuben Jansen, July 28; Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, August 18.

Forrestal Writings Will Be Published

New York, June 28 (AP)—Confidential writings of the late Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal will be published in a series of newspaper articles and in book form next fall.

The New York Herald Tribune will begin publishing data from Forrestal's private diaries and personal papers in serial form Sept. 26.

The Viking Press will publish the book in October.

The notes and memoranda, until now held for safekeeping in the White House, will contain a few deletions—in the interest of national security.

Recommends Indictment

Pittsburgh, June 28 (AP)—A special grand jury yesterday recommended indictment of Mayor David L. Lawrence and charged that a city contract with a New York firm for installing a new street lighting system is the "most deplorable and shocking chapter in the history of the city of Pittsburgh." Also recommended for indictment are six other city officials; the Broadway Maintenance Corp., which installed the lights; and three firm officials, President Sidney Lipkins, Vice President Joseph C. Lipkins and Attorney Jesse Cohen. Mayor Lawrence is a Democrat as are the other six city officials.

Forrestal Writings Will Be Published

New York, June 28 (AP)—Confidential writings of the late Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal will be published in a series of newspaper articles and in book form next fall.

The New York Herald Tribune will begin publishing data from Forrestal's private diaries and personal papers in serial form Sept. 26.

The Viking Press will publish the book in October.

The notes and memoranda, until now held for safekeeping in the White House, will contain a few deletions—in the interest of national security.

The material was organized by Eugene S. Duffield, assistant publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer and a representative of the Forrestal estate executors.

Recommends Indictment

Pittsburgh, June 28 (AP)—A special grand jury yesterday recommended indictment of Mayor David L. Lawrence and charged that a city contract with a New York firm for installing a new street lighting system is the "most deplorable and shocking chapter in the history of the city of Pittsburgh." Also recommended for indictment are six other city officials: the Broadway Maintenance Corp., which installed the lights; and three firm officials, President Sidney Lipkins, Vice President Joseph C. Lipkins and Attorney Jesse Cohen. Mayor Lawrence is a Democrat as are the other six city officials.

Manhattan Island was discovered by Henry Hudson in 1609.

Man Is Held

New York, June 28 (AP)—An alleged swindler accused of obtaining about $30,000 on promises to get Bronx or Manhattan apartments for more than 35 complainants was arrested in Harlem last night. Terence Dewey Jones, 52-year-old Negro, was arrested by detectives at his furnished room and was booked on a grand larceny charge at the Morrisania station, the Bronx. Detectives said a six-month search, which led through New Jersey to Philadelphia and back to New York, ended last night when Jones was traced to the furnished room.

Tennessee, which grows between 430,000 and 700,000 crates yearly, is the second-ranking strawberry producing state of the Union.

New Red Offensive

the central front as opposing armies continually probed enemy lines.

Heaviest action was near Kumhwa, where a Red battalion attacked a U.N. division last night. Allied artillery broke up the attack in the early morning hours.

Others Follow

Other attacks followed until daylight. All were smashed.

In the adjoining Kumsong sector, two other Red battalions beat back allied efforts to probe defenses in that Red buildup area.

And, he added, it "could be screening an attack buildup."

On a visit to all three corps in his Eighth Army, Van Fleet reported he found the morale high—unaffected by Red tactics or cease-fire talk.

On his return to headquarters he was asked again about Washington reports Russians proposed U.N. and North Korean field commanders discuss a cease-fire at the 38th Parallel. He replied:

"I've just returned from visiting my forward units who are carrying out a military mission in Korea.

Have Their Orders

In Tokyo a spokesman for General Ridgeway said both the supreme commander and Van Fleet had their orders and would not comment on any cease-fire until consultation with the American joint chiefs of staff.

One member of the joint chiefs of staff was brought under Communist fire during the day.

He is Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of U. S. naval operations. Sherman was aboard the battleship New Jersey when Red shore batteries sent shells screaming across her decks.

It was the 133rd consecutive day that U.N. warships shelled Wonsan.

Nevertheless, night-flying planes reported they saw the heaviest Red highway traffic in months moving down the east coast through the Wonsan area. It was heading toward the front.

Convoys Roll Along

Iran's Premier

he was afraid Iran's proposed new law decreeing death for sabotage might strike at Drake. Iran accused Drake of sabotage for ordering captains of British tankers at Abadan not to sign receipts saying they owed the Iranian National Oil Company for the oil taken aboard their ships.

By this morning there were 42 tankers tied up near Abadan because of the squabble and the British government has ordered them to discharge cargo and sail empty rather than sign the receipts. Without ships to carry it off, oil and gasoline will soon clog the limited storage facilities necessitating a shutdown even if British personnel stay on.

The company hopes to hang on at least until tomorrow when the International Court at The Hague, The Netherlands, is scheduled to take up a British request for an injunction against Iran. Iran has said it will not recognize the court's jurisdiction.

New Red Offensive

the central front as opposing armies continually probed enemy lines.

Heaviest action was near Kumhwa, where a Red battalion attacked a U.N. division last night. Allied artillery broke up the attack in the early morning hours.

Others Follow

Other attacks followed until daylight. All were smashed.

In the adjoining Kumsong sector, two other Red battalions beat back allied efforts to probe defenses in that Red buildup area.

The Reds are "continuing to defend stubbornly all across the front," Van Fleet commented. "This stubborn defensive attitude shows that they do not want us to go farther north."

And, he added, it "could be screening an attack buildup."

On a visit to all three corps in his Eighth Army, Van Fleet reported he found the morale high—unaffected by Red tactics or cease-fire talk.

On his return to headquarters he was asked again about Washington reports Russians proposed U.N. and North Korean field commanders discuss a cease-fire at the 38th Parallel. He replied:

"I've just returned from visiting my forward units who are carrying out a military mission in Korea.

Have Their Orders

In Tokyo a spokesman for General Ridgeway said both the supreme commander and Van Fleet had their orders and would not comment on any cease-fire until consultation with the American joint chiefs of staff.

One member of the joint chiefs of staff was brought under Communist fire during the day.

He is Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of U. S. naval operations. Sherman was aboard the battleship New Jersey when Red shore batteries sent shells screaming across her decks.

The warship's big guns silenced the shore batteries. No one aboard the New Jersey was injured.

It was the 133rd consecutive day that U.N. warships shelled Wonsan.

Nevertheless, night-flying planes reported they saw the heaviest Red highway traffic in months moving down the east coast through the Wonsan area. It was heading toward the front.

Convoys Roll Along

Truck convoys also rolled down western highways toward the Red buildup area north of Pyonggang, heavily-guarded tip of the former Red iron triangle. U.N. officers have predicted Reds plan to launch an offensive from this area by the second week of July, down the Uijongbu invasion corridor toward Seoul.

Bad weather hampered aerial efforts to strike at them.

But Wednesday the U. S. Fifth Air Force rocketed and bombed supply areas and flew in close to the front to support ground troops.

Closer cooperation between ground and air forces was the main purpose of Van Fleet's front line tour.

He said his trip was "strictly business," primarily "to look for ways to marry up air and ground activities in action. We are always looking for ways to improve the cooperation between the two services."

Iran's Premier

he was afraid Iran's proposed new law decreeing death for sabotage might strike at Drake. Iran accused Drake of sabotage for ordering captains of British tankers at Abadan not to sign receipts saying they owed the Iranian National Oil Company for the oil taken aboard their ships.

By this morning there were 42 tankers tied up near Abadan because of the squabble and the British government has ordered them to discharge cargo and sail empty rather than sign the receipts. Without ships to carry it off, oil and gasoline will soon clog the limited storage facilities necessitating a shutdown even if British personnel stay on.

The company hopes to hang on at least until tomorrow when the International Court at The Hague, The Netherlands, is scheduled to take up a British request for an injunction against Iran. Iran has said it will not recognize the court's jurisdiction.

NAMES OF HUSBAND AND WIFE TOGETHER

Few questions are asked me so often as this one: "Should my name or my husband's come first when signing (a) greeting cards (b) business papers (c) printing first names on holiday cards?"

(a) The name of the one signing the card is last. (b) As a rule the husband's name is first. (c) Either one, no rule.

Treating Hosts

Dear Mrs. Post: When out enjoying a drive with friends, how can I suggest that we stop for ice cream without having them feel they ought to take the check?

Answer: By suggesting that they stop somewhere for ice cream and then explaining that since it was your idea, you are certainly the one to treat.

Tipping Regular Waitress

Dear Mrs. Post: When regular guests at a hotel have the same waitress every evening for dinner, could they tip once a week instead of every night? Or, may they tip her at the end of their vacation?

Answer: The end of each week is best.

Gift Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend wrote that she was sending me a gift. That was a month ago and the gift hasn't turned up. Maybe she changed her mind or delayed in buying it, or maybe she did send it and wonders why I don't thank her. What should I do?

Answer: This depends upon how well you know her and the type of person she is. In the typical case you can do nothing but wait until it comes, or until she some day asks you whether or not you liked her present.

Church Across the Street

Dear Mrs. Post: The church I intend to be married in is just across the street from where I live. Would it be permissible for us all to walk across or should we get in cars and drive around the block and pull up in front of the church?

Answer: If the weather is beautiful, you can walk. If the weather is bad, then you probably would drive.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. How should Mrs. Smith sign her letters, and how should a letter of thanks be worded? These and other helpful suggestions on the etiquette of letter writing are included in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 502. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents (coin preferred), and a 3-cent stamp to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

NAMES OF HUSBAND AND WIFE TOGETHER

Few questions are asked me so often as this one: "Should my name or my husband's come first when signing (a) greeting cards (b) business papers (c) printing first names on holiday cards?"

(a) The name of the one signing the card is last. (b) As a rule the husband's name is first. (c) Either one, no rule.

Treating Hosts

Dear Mrs. Post: When out enjoying a drive with friends, how can I suggest that we stop for ice cream without having them feel they ought to take the check?

Answer: By suggesting that they stop somewhere for ice cream and then explaining that since it was your idea, you are certainly the one to treat.

Tipping Regular Waitress

Dear Mrs. Post: When regular guests at a hotel have the same waitress every evening for dinner, could they tip once a week instead of every night? Or, may they tip her at the end of their vacation?

Answer: The end of each week is best.

Gift Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend wrote that she was sending me a gift. That was a month ago and the gift hasn't turned up. Maybe she changed her mind or delayed in buying it, or maybe she did send it and wonders why I don't thank her. What should I do?

Answer: This depends upon how well you know her and the type of person she is. In the typical case you can do nothing but wait until it comes, or until she some day asks you whether or not you liked her present.

Church Across the Street

Dear Mrs. Post: The church I intend to be married in is just across the street from where I live. Would it be permissible for us all to walk across or should we get in cars and drive around the block and pull up in front of the church?

Answer: If the weather is beautiful, you can walk. If the weather is bad, then you probably would drive.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. How should Mrs. Smith sign her letters, and how should a letter of thanks be worded? These and other helpful suggestions on the etiquette of letter writing are included in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 502. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents (coin preferred), and a 3-cent stamp to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Marilyn L. Dimsey, Highland, Is Wed To Robert Anderson

Highland, June 28—The marriage of Miss Marilyn Lois Dimsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Dimsey, North road, to Robert A. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Anderson, Sr. of Schenectady, took place here Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Methodist Church, with the Rev. Stanley Jones of that congregation officiating.

James C. Anderson, Jr. was best man for his brother. Thomas Hanophy of Oyster Bay, and Edward Crosby of Schenectady ushered.

A reception for 40 guests followed at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson then left for a short wedding trip through northern New York. They will make their home on State street, Schenectady. Mrs. Anderson wore a brown and white sheer dress for traveling, with a linen jacket, white accessories, and a rose and delphinium corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Highland High School, and Plattsburg State Teachers College. She is engaged to teach the first grade at Glens Falls next year.

Mr. Anderson was graduated from the Schenectady schools, Champlain College, and the University of Bridgeport, Bridgeport, Conn., where he majored in business administration. He is associated with General Electric's Schenectady office.

13 Troops Killed

David Warfield Dies; Aged 84

New York, June 28 (AP)—David Warfield, one of the great names in the American theatre, died last night at the age of 84.

His fame has never died in theatrical circles. Old-timers still recall how he started his career as a $4-a-week usher in a San Francisco music hall.

It was back in 1900 that producer David Belasco "discovered" Warfield doing a comedy routine with the Weber and Fields Burlesque Company. For the next 24 years, Warfield's name glittered in marquees along Broadway.

Some of his hits were "A Grand Army Man," "The Flying Dutchman," and "The Merchant of Venice."

Then, in 1924, he retired to his apartment overlooking Central Park, spurning a million dollar movie offer to make any single picture he chose. Warfield termed the movies "animated photographs."

Fat Folks! Your Dream has come True!

How to Lose UGLY FAT Without Dieting-Hunger

If you are a non-glandular, overweight man or woman by all means read about this amazing, new, clinically tested medical discovery, that is already creating a sensation all over the country.

Forget all about diets, hunger, calorie counting, massage, drugs, exercise and all other unpleasant, unnecessary things usually associated with reducing.

For a great medical discovery now makes it possible for you to lose pounds of excess fat safely—without dieting, without having a single hungry moment.

Doctors Discover Wafex

Most doctors agree that the best way to lose excess fat is to eat less—to go on a restricted diet. A group of New York doctors, making a special study of obesity, realized however, that while dieting was desirable it wasn't as easy or as simple as it sounds for most overweight people.

Hunger—The Fat Person's Enemy!

Dieting for most folks means hunger. And few people can resist hunger. So they appease it by eating between meals, by going off their diets. And back comes the unwanted pounds and inches.

So these New York doctors worked for years searching for a formula that would lick hunger and make people lose fat safely, without dieting. They finally announced success in a food adjunct called WAFEX.

Clinical Tests Proved Their Discovery

The doctors clinically tested WAFEX on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The group undergoing the tests were instructed by the doctors to chew or suck a tasty WAFEX half an hour before each meal but not to go on any special diet, not to cut out any special foods—just sit down at the table and eat until satisfied.

Results Amazing

Every member of the group lost 8 to 20 pounds in a short period of time; in fact satisfactory weight losses were noticed the very first week. And not a single person said she had a hungry moment.

Wafex as Harmless as a Glass of Water

A food adjunct not a drug

During the tests the doctors carefully checked the physical condition of each member of the group, took electro-cardiograms, and did not find a single case of ill effect. Everyone said she never felt better. So at last, the fat person's dream has come true—a way to lose excess fat without dieting, without hunger, without giving up the foods she likes.

Start slimming down your figure. Get WAFEX today. $3 for a month's supply. GUARANTEE: if you aren't pleased with the weight you lost after using one bottle of WAFEX you get your money back.

New Hair-Dos Feature: Bare Ears, Bold Parts

Marilyn L. Dimsey, Highland, Is Wed To Robert Anderson

Highland, June 28—The marriage of Miss Marilyn Lois Dimsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Dimsey, North road, to Robert A. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Anderson, Sr. of Schenectady, took place here Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Methodist Church, with the Rev. Stanley Jones of that congregation officiating.

Traditional wedding music and marches were played by the organist, Ledgard Ball, while white gladioli were used in the church decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white nylon lace gown over taffeta, made with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline, short puffed sleeves, and a ballerina length skirt. She wore long lace mitts and a waist-length lace veil, caught to a lace cap with white rosebuds. She carried a bouquet of white roses and light blue delphinium, tied with light blue streamers.

The bride's honor attendant, Miss Charlotte E. Berger of Madison, N. J., wore a lavendar lace gown similar to that of the bride, and carried a colonial bouquet of lavender sweet peas and pink roses.

James C. Anderson, Jr. was best man for his brother. Thomas Hanophy of Oyster Bay, and Edward Crosby of Schenectady ushered.

A reception for 40 guests followed at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson then left for a short wedding trip through northern New York. They will make their home on State street, Schenectady. Mrs. Anderson wore a brown and white sheer dress for traveling, with a linen jacket, white accessories, and a rose and delphinium corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Highland High School, and Plattsburg State Teachers College. She is engaged to teach the first grade at Glens Falls next year.

Mr. Anderson was graduated from the Schenectady schools, Champlain College, and the University of Bridgeport, Bridgeport, Conn., where he majored in business administration. He is associated with General Electric's Schenectady office.

13 Troops Killed

Casablanca, Moroco, June 28 (AP)—Thirteen French troops were killed and 11 injured yesterday in the crash of a military transport plane near the U. S. naval base at Port Lyautey. The plane was en route from Toulon, France, to Dakar, French West Africa.

David Warfield Dies; Aged 84

New York, June 28 (AP)—David Warfield, one of the great names in the American theatre, died last night at the age of 84.

Warfield zoomed from burlesque to stardom at the turn of the century and retired from the stage 27 years ago at the peak of his success.

His fame has never died in theatrical circles. Old-timers still recall how he started his career as a $4-a-week usher in a San Francisco music hall.

It was back in 1900 that producer David Belasco "discovered" Warfield doing a comedy routine with the Weber and Fields Burlesque Company. For the next 24 years, Warfield's name glittered in marquees along Broadway.

Some of his hits were "A Grand Army Man," "The Flying Dutchman," and "The Merchant of Venice."

Then, in 1924, he retired to his apartment overlooking Central Park, spurning a million dollar movie offer to make any single picture he chose. Warfield termed the movies "animated photographs."

Fat Folks! Your Dream has come True!

How to Lose UGLY FAT Without Dieting-Hunger

If you are a non-glandular, overweight man or woman by all means read about this amazing, new, clinically tested medical discovery, that is already creating a sensation all over the country.

Forget all about diets, hunger, calorie counting, massage, drugs, exercise and all other unpleasant, unnecessary things usually associated with reducing.

For a great medical discovery now makes it possible for you to lose pounds of excess fat safely — without dieting, without having a single hungry moment.

Doctors Discover Wafex

Most doctors agree that the best way to lose excess fat is to eat less — to go on a restricted diet. A group of New York doctors, making a special study of obesity, realized however, that while dieting was desirable it wasn't as easy or as simple as it sounds for most overweight people.

Hunger — The Fat Person's Enemy!

Dieting for most folks means hunger. And few people can resist hunger. So they appease it by eating between meals, by going off their diets. And back comes the unwanted pounds and inches.

So these New York doctors worked for years searching for a formula that would lick hunger and make people lose fat safely, without dieting. They finally announced success in a food adjunct called WAFEX.

Clinical Tests Proved Their Discovery

The doctors clinically tested WAFEX on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The group undergoing the tests were instructed by the doctors to chew or suck a tasty WAFEX half an hour before each meal but not to go on any special diet, not to cut out any special foods — just sit down at the table and eat until satisfied.

Results Amazing

Every member of the group lost 8 to 20 pounds in a short period of time; in fact satisfactory weight losses were noticed the very first week. And not a single person said she had a hungry moment.

Wafex as Harmless as a Glass of Water

A food adjunct not a drug

During the tests the doctors carefully checked the physical condition of each member of the group, took electro-cardiograms, and did not find a single case of ill effect. Everyone said she never felt better. So at last, the fat person's dream has come true — a way to lose excess fat without dieting, without hunger, without giving up the foods she likes.

Start slimming down your figure. Get WAFEX today. $3 for a month's supply. GUARANTEE: if you aren't pleased with the weight you lost after using one bottle of WAFEX you get your money back.

Colonials Open Series Here Tonight; Drop 7-6 Decision to Oneonta

Marino, Hitting .455, To Make Local Debut

Headed by Nick Marino, Kingston's new shortstop who has been hitting at a .455 clip since reporting to the club in Pittsfield Monday night, Manager Joel Kern's Colonials return to municipal stadium tonight for a single game with the Gloversville Glovers at 8:30 o'clock.

The two clubs will remain in town for another single encounter Friday night scheduled to start at 9 o'clock.

Meanwhile, up in Oneonta Wednesday night, the Colonials dropped a heart-breaking 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of the second place Oneonta Red Sox before 715 fans.

Kingston held a 6-4 lead until the seventh when the Sockers pushed over three runs on a double and triple to sew up the win.

Local fans will get their first glimpse of Kingston's new shortstop tonight. Since joining the Colonials earlier this week, Marino, the former Amsterdam slugger, has made a big difference with the locals despite their two losses to Oneonta.

Marino, swatting at .455, has picked up five hits in 11 trips to the plate, including a homer. In the field, his play has been flawless, handling 13 chances without a booot.

After spotting Oneonta three runs in the first last night, the Colonials bounced back with a cluster of five in the second frame.

Kern's Hit Scores Two

Bob McNabb, a recent Georgetown University graduate, making his first start in OB, opened the second with walks to Lou Kramberg, Sam Piacentino and Jack Allen. Tony Gomez rapped a double-play ball to Guttilla at second but this throw to West was dropped by the shortstop as Kramberg scored. On Brownie Wojcik's forceout, 1-2, Piacentino was erased but Dick Connors walked to force in Allen. Gomez tallied as Dennis Healey was thrown out and Wojcik and Connors came in on Joel Kern's single which took a bad hop over the shortstop's head.

Connors, meanwhile, who was bumped for three in the first remained in the ball game with a 6-4 lead until Oneonta's seventh when he was shelled. Charlie Ayers came on and finally put out the fire but only after the Red Sox had scored three runs.

Kingston's sixth run came across in the fifth while Oneonta made it 6-4 with a single tally in the bottom half of the fourth.

The game clincher came in the seventh paced by a double by Arnie Spence and a long triple by Johnny Minarcin. Ken Paschal's pinch-single added to the uprising.

COLONIAL CAPERS . . . Jack Allen saw service at first again last night due to "Red" Klinger's hand injury. . . . Nick Marino continued his slugging with two hits in five trips. His single in the fifth got Kingston started to its sixth run. . . . Red Sox field buzzing with improved Colonials extending the Sockers to the limit before winning the game. . . . Oneonta's win kept them in second place, a half game behind the front-running Pittsfield Electrics. . . . Tonight's game with Gloversville starts at 8:30 and Friday's single tilt at 9 o'clock. Phior to Friday's game at 6:30, St. Mary's CYO midget champs of Ulster county, will meet St. Mary's of Wappingers Falls, in a preliminary game at the Stadium. One ticket of admission is good for both the midget champ and the regular Colonial contest.

Player Help Due For Colonial Club

George McDonald, representing the office of George M. Trautman, president-treasurer of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, is due to arrive in Kingston Friday to discuss player help for the Colonials of the Canadian-American League.

According to Ad Jones, general manager of the locals, McDonald, who is supervisor of minor league umpires in the eastern area, has a list of about 10 players who may be assigned to Kingston.

McDonald also is slated to witness the Kingston-Gloversville game here Friday night.

LAST LEAP—Harry Harris made a pretty picture taking this gray over a water hurdle. A subsequent attempt to make Montadet take a jump during routine schooling at Aqueduct proved fatal to Harris. The inexperienced French gelding balked, smashing the 30-year-old rider's chest into a hurdle wing, rupturing his heart, in full view of a crowd of close to 20,000, including his wife and three-year-old daughter. (NEA)

The Scoreboard

(By The Associated Press)

The hottest hurler in the majors today is Allie (Wahoo) Reynolds, the part Indian righthander from Bethany, Okla., who toils for the New York Yankees. Last night he racked up his third straight shutout as the Yanks whipped the Washington Senators, 2-0, on five hits.

The victory plus Detroit's 3-2 win over Chicago enabled the Yankees to climb to within one game of the American League leading White Sox. The third place Boston Red Sox also closed in on the leaders with a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia's Athletics and are now three games off the pace.

Brooklyn's National League leading Dodgers crushed the New York Giants, 10-4, to widen their margin to six games over their interborough rivals. The St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Chicago Cubs, 14-2 and Cincinnati edged out Pittsburgh 2-1.

Cleveland shellacked the St. Louis Browns, 8-1. Boston's Braves and the Philadelphia Phils were rained out.

The 32-year-old Reynolds was in trouble only in the fifth when Gene Verble slammed a three-bagger with one out. Allie preserved his shutout by getting rival pitcher Don Johnson to fly to short right and Gil Coan to ground out.

No Runs in 28 2/3 Frames

Reynolds, in registering his eighth win against four defeats, hasn't allowed a run in his last 28 2/3 innings nor a base on balls in 34 2/3 innings.

Allie is shooting for three new marks—most successive shutout games, most successive shutout innings and most consecutive innings without a base on balls—but he has a long way to go to reach any of them.

G. Harris (Doc) White hurled five straight shutout games for the White Sox back in 1904. Walter Johnson pitched 56 consecutive innings for Washington without allowing a run in 1913. Christy Mathewson did not issue a base on balls through 68 consecutive innings for the Giants in 1913. White owns the American League mark of 65 1/3 innings. He accomplished the feat in 1907.

The Yankees made only seven hits against ex-mates Don Johnson and Tom Ferrick. Phil Rizzuto opened the game with a double to right and scored on a single by Gene Woodling. Joe DiMaggio tallied the second Yankee run on a double in the sixth and a single by Johnny Mize.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

Two-hit pitching by George McPhail and a combination of two singles and a double kept the Pittsfield Electrics a half-game ahead of the Oneonta Red Sox in the Canadian-American League.

The Electrice shut out the Gloversville Glovers, 1-0 last night. In other games, Oneonta edged the last-place Kingston Colonials, 7-6, and the Amsterdam Rugmakers topped the Rome Colonels, 7-5.

At Gloversville, the Electrics' only run came in the first inning on singles by leftfielder Jack Seltenreich and shortstop Charles Ruddock and a double by third baseman Dick Zack.

Both of the hits McPhail allowed were doubles—one by shortstop Ralph Vitti and the other by catcher Bernie Vogt. The losing pitcher, Bob Sise, allowed seven hits.

The Rugmakers won in the ninth at Rome when three hits and two errors accounted for two runs. First baseman John Paul Jones banged a homer in the fourth for Amsterdam with none on.

League Officials Concerned With Poor Attendance

McCormick Is Winner Over Jackson

While Chez Emile continued on its merry way to the championship of the 1951 City League, loop officials are seriously pondering how the circuit is going to survive with the steady lack of patrons at the nightly Athletic Field contests.

In what was described as the best game of the current campaign last night, the Chezzies tacked up win No. 6 in seven starts by nosing out Old Capital Motors by 3 to 1. Despite the fact, that the league-leaders were billed to appear, the attendance was still off.

This morning Secretary Joe Messinger, in reporting last night's outcome, said "the game was one of the many fine games played at the Athletic Field but it seems that the fans are no longer interested in the doings at the field that produced most of the outstanding players that this city has ever turned out. It is questionable whether the City League can survive the season with the poor support it has received to date."

Meanwhile, the Chezzies and Old Caps hooked up in a real pitcher's duel with Floyd McCormick finally besting George Jackson as the Chezzies rammed across two runs in the eighth to win, 3-1.

Errors Hurt Losers

The Chezzies drew first blood with a single tally in the fourth on Norton's single, a sacrifice by "Bud" Scheffel and two consecutive pick-off errors by Jackson, the pitcher, and Decker, the third baseman.

Old Caps pushed over the equalizer in the bottom of the sixth when Felipe walked, went to second on Oakley's bunt and scampered home when Decked singled.

The score remained at 1-all until the eighth when Jackson got himself in hot water and never escaped.

Slover opened the stanza by being hit by a pitched ball. He stole second and scored on Barnes' one-bagger. Jackson hit his opposing hurler but McCormick was rubbed out on a double-play. Singles by Norton and "Bud" Scheffel produced the second run of the session.

Except for wildness, the game might still be going. Jackson permitted six bingles, struck out 11 but walked six and hit a couple of batters.

McCormick, meanwhile, while allowing three hits, issued six free passes and fanned two batters.

Messinger's Memos . . . Ronnie Scheffel, the former basketball and baseball star at KHS, made his debut in the league last night and opened the fifth inning with the first triple of the season, a shot eluding Whittaker in right field. Ronnie died at third however as Jackson retired the next three batters, two on whiffs . . . Both the infielders and outfielders player inspired baseball with "Bud" Scheffel and Oakley making outstanding plays. Norton also made a fine one-handed over the shoulder catch on Jackson's belt in the seventh . . . Ferraro's Bowlodrome and Boulevard Gulf tangle tonight.

Murphy Gets TKO Win Over LaMotta

The smiling, red-haired slugger, boxing's latest boxoffice sensation, set the stage for a crack at champion Joey Maxim by battering and slicing the Bronx bull's swarthy features before 21,257 fans at Yankee Stadium last night. The gross gate was $116,690.

Today Irish Bobby and co-managers Irving Cohen and Travis Hatfield will sit down with Jack Kearns, Maxim's manager, and Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, to discuss a date for a Murphy-Maxim title scrap in New York. Kearns wants Murphy because "he's the guy who will pack them in."

Jake Slow

From the fifth on LaMotta, very slow afoot at a bulky 175-pounds, bled profusely. He was cut over and under both eyes, was cut on the chin and mouth, and there were dark bruises on his cheeks.

Just before the bell rang to end the seventh round, blood gushed from a deep cut over Jake's left eye.

The announcer called Murphy an eighth round winner but later Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, ruled that it had ended in the seventh.

Colonials Open Series Here Tonight; Drop 7-6 Decision to Oneonta

Marino, Hitting .455, To Make Local Debut

Headed by Nick Marino, Kingston's new shortstop who has been hitting at a .455 clip since reporting to the club in Pittsfield Monday night, Manager Joel Kern's Colonials return to municipal stadium tonight for a single game with the Gloversville Glovers at 8:30 o'clock.

The two clubs will remain in town for another single encounter Friday night scheduled to start at 9 o'clock.

Meanwhile, up in Oneonta Wednesday night, the Colonials dropped a heart-breaking 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of the second place Oneonta Red Sox before 715 fans.

Kingston held a 6-4 lead until the seventh when the Sockers pushed over three runs on a double and triple to sew up the win.

Local fans will get their first glimpse of Kingston's new shortstop tonight. Since joining the Colonials earlier this week, Marino, the former Amsterdam slugger, has made a big difference with the locals despite their two losses to Oneonta.

Marino, swatting at .455, has picked up five hits in 11 trips to the plate, including a homer. In the field, his play has been flawless, handling 13 chances without a booot.

After spotting Oneonta three runs in the first last night, the Colonials bounced back with a cluster of five in the second frame.

Kern's Hit Scores Two

Bob McNabb, a recent Georgetown University graduate, making his first start in OB, opened the second with walks to Lou Kramberg, Sam Piacentino and Jack Allen. Tony Gomez rapped a double-play ball to Guttilla at second but this throw to West was dropped by the shortstop as Kramberg scored. On Brownie Wojcik's forceout, 1-2, Piacentino was erased but Dick Connors walked to force in Allen. Gomez tallied as Dennis Healey was thrown out and Wojcik and Connors came in on Joel Kern's single which took a bad hop over the shortstop's head.

Connors, meanwhile, who was bumped for three in the first remained in the ball game with a 6-4 lead until Oneonta's seventh when he was shelled. Charlie Ayers came on and finally put out the fire but only after the Red Sox had scored three runs.

Kingston's sixth run came across in the fifth while Oneonta made it 6-4 with a single tally in the bottom half of the fourth.

The game clincher came in the seventh paced by a double by Arnie Spence and a long triple by Johnny Minarcin. Ken Paschal's pinch-single added to the uprising.

COLONIAL CAPERS . . . Jack Allen saw service at first again last night due to "Red" Klinger's hand injury. . . . Nick Marino continued his slugging with two hits in five trips. His single in the fifth got Kingston started to its sixth run. . . . Red Sox field buzzing with improved Colonials extending the Sockers to the limit before winning the game. . . . Oneonta's win kept them in second place, a half game behind the front-running Pittsfield Electrics. . . . Tonight's game with Gloversville starts at 8:30 and Friday's single tilt at 9 o'clock. Phior to Friday's game at 6:30, St. Mary's CYO midget champs of Ulster county, will meet St. Mary's of Wappingers Falls, in a preliminary game at the Stadium. One ticket of admission is good for both the midget champ and the regular Colonial contest.

Player Help Due For Colonial Club

George McDonald, representing the office of George M. Trautman, president-treasurer of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, is due to arrive in Kingston Friday to discuss player help for the Colonials of the Canadian-American League.

According to Ad Jones, general manager of the locals, McDonald, who is supervisor of minor league umpires in the eastern area, has a list of about 10 players who may be assigned to Kingston.

McDonald also is slated to witness the Kingston-Gloversville game here Friday night.

The Scoreboard

(By The Associated Press)

The hottest hurler in the majors today is Allie (Wahoo) Reynolds, the part Indian righthander from Bethany, Okla., who toils for the New York Yankees. Last night he racked up his third straight shutout as the Yanks whipped the Washington Senators, 2-0, on five hits.

The victory plus Detroit's 3-2 win over Chicago enabled the Yankees to climb to within one game of the American League leading White Sox. The third place Boston Red Sox also closed in on the leaders with a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia's Athletics and are now three games off the pace.

Brooklyn's National League leading Dodgers crushed the New York Giants, 10-4, to widen their margin to six games over their interborough rivals. The St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Chicago Cubs, 14-2 and Cincinnati edged out Pittsburgh 2-1.

Cleveland shellacked the St. Louis Browns, 8-1. Boston's Braves and the Philadelphia Phils were rained out.

The 32-year-old Reynolds was in trouble only in the fifth when Gene Verble slammed a three-bagger with one out. Allie preserved his shutout by getting rival pitcher Don Johnson to fly to short right and Gil Coan to ground out.

No Runs in 28 2/3 Frames

Reynolds, in registering his eighth win against four defeats, hasn't allowed a run in his last 28 2/3 innings nor a base on balls in 34 2/3 innings.

Allie is shooting for three new marks—most successive shutout games, most successive shutout innings and most consecutive innings without a base on balls—but he has a long way to go to reach any of them.

G. Harris (Doc) White hurled five straight shutout games for the White Sox back in 1904. Walter Johnson pitched 56 consecutive innings for Washington without allowing a run in 1913. Christy Mathewson did not issue a base on balls through 68 consecutive innings for the Giants in 1913. White owns the American League mark of 65 1/3 innings. He accomplished the feat in 1907.

The Yankees made only seven hits against ex-mates Don Johnson and Tom Ferrick. Phil Rizzuto opened the game with a double to right and scored on a single by Gene Woodling. Joe DiMaggio tallied the second Yankee run on a double in the sixth and a single by Johnny Mize.

Can-Am Roundup

Two-hit pitching by George McPhail and a combination of two singles and a double kept the Pittsfield Electrics a half-game ahead of the Oneonta Red Sox in the Canadian-American League.

The Electrice shut out the Gloversville Glovers, 1-0 last night. In other games, Oneonta edged the last-place Kingston Colonials, 7-6, and the Amsterdam Rugmakers topped the Rome Colonels, 7-5.

At Gloversville, the Electrics' only run came in the first inning on singles by leftfielder Jack Seltenreich and shortstop Charles Ruddock and a double by third baseman Dick Zack.

Both of the hits McPhail allowed were doubles—one by shortstop Ralph Vitti and the other by catcher Bernie Vogt. The losing pitcher, Bob Sise, allowed seven hits.

The Rugmakers won in the ninth at Rome when three hits and two errors accounted for two runs. First baseman John Paul Jones banged a homer in the fourth for Amsterdam with none on.

Twenty classes are listed for the show. Six ribbon awards are scheduled in each class and each first place winner will receive a trophy in addition to the blue ribbon.

A special "challenge trophy" will be presented during the judging.

Eligible to compete for the special award at the end of the show, without entry fee, will be all blue ribbon winners in the eight horsemanship classes. Possession for one year will be given the trophy winner and three victories, not necessarily consecutive, will give permanent possession.

League Officials Concerned With Poor Attendance

McCormick Is Winner Over Jackson

While Chez Emile continued on its merry way to the championship of the 1951 City League, loop officials are seriously pondering how the circuit is going to survive with the steady lack of patrons at the nightly Athletic Field contests.

In what was described as the best game of the current campaign last night, the Chezzies tacked up win No. 6 in seven starts by nosing out Old Capital Motors by 3 to 1. Despite the fact, that the league-leaders were billed to appear, the attendance was still off.

This morning Secretary Joe Messinger, in reporting last night's outcome, said "the game was one of the many fine games played at the Athletic Field but it seems that the fans are no longer interested in the doings at the field that produced most of the outstanding players that this city has ever turned out. It is questionable whether the City League can survive the season with the poor support it has received to date."

Meanwhile, the Chezzies and Old Caps hooked up in a real pitcher's duel with Floyd McCormick finally besting George Jackson as the Chezzies rammed across two runs in the eighth to win, 3-1.

Errors Hurt Losers

The Chezzies drew first blood with a single tally in the fourth on Norton's single, a sacrifice by "Bud" Scheffel and two consecutive pick-off errors by Jackson, the pitcher, and Decker, the third baseman.

Old Caps pushed over the equalizer in the bottom of the sixth when Felipe walked, went to second on Oakley's bunt and scampered home when Decked singled.

The score remained at 1-all until the eighth when Jackson got himself in hot water and never escaped.

Slover opened the stanza by being hit by a pitched ball. He stole second and scored on Barnes' one-bagger. Jackson hit his opposing hurler but McCormick was rubbed out on a double-play. Singles by Norton and "Bud" Scheffel produced the second run of the session.

Except for wildness, the game might still be going. Jackson permitted six bingles, struck out 11 but walked six and hit a couple of batters.

McCormick, meanwhile, while allowing three hits, issued six free passes and fanned two batters.

Messinger's Memos . . . Ronnie Scheffel, the former basketball and baseball star at KHS, made his debut in the league last night and opened the fifth inning with the first triple of the season, a shot eluding Whittaker in right field. Ronnie died at third however as Jackson retired the next three batters, two on whiffs . . . Both the infielders and outfielders player inspired baseball with "Bud" Scheffel and Oakley making outstanding plays. Norton also made a fine one-handed over the shoulder catch on Jackson's belt in the seventh . . . Ferraro's Bowlodrome and Boulevard Gulf tangle tonight.

Murphy Gets TKO Win Over LaMotta

The smiling, red-haired slugger, boxing's latest boxoffice sensation, set the stage for a crack at champion Joey Maxim by battering and slicing the Bronx bull's swarthy features before 21,257 fans at Yankee Stadium last night. The gross gate was $116,690.

Today Irish Bobby and co-managers Irving Cohen and Travis Hatfield will sit down with Jack Kearns, Maxim's manager, and Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, to discuss a date for a Murphy-Maxim title scrap in New York. Kearns wants Murphy because "he's the guy who will pack them in."

Jake Slow

From the fifth on LaMotta, very slow afoot at a bulky 175-pounds, bled profusely. He was cut over and under both eyes, was cut on the chin and mouth, and there were dark bruises on his cheeks.

Just before the bell rang to end the seventh round, blood gushed from a deep cut over Jake's left eye.

Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello bounded into the ring, gave Jake a quick look, and when the Bull told him "I feel weak," the commission physician waved to referee Ray Miller to stop the fight.

The announcer called Murphy an eighth round winner but later Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, ruled that it had ended in the seventh.

St. Mary's CYO Champs to Play Dutchess Team at Stadium Friday

Game to Precede Can-Am Contest

Headed by Jackie Houghtaling, author of two no-hitters, St. Mary's of Kingston, CYO midget champs of Ulster county, will tangle with St. Mary's, Wappingers Falls, in a preliminary game for upstate honors at municipal stadium Friday night.

Game time is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock, preceding the scheduled Kingston Colonial-Gloversville game of the Canadian-American League. One ticket of admission will be good for both games. The Can-Am tilt is due to get underway at 9 p. m.

Seek State Honors

The winner of Friday's game will earn the right to continue in competition for state honors in the CYO championship.

St. Mary's moved to this preliminary contest by beating St. Joseph's, St. Peter's and Immaculate Conception.

The club, under the watchful supervision of Charlie Diers, Henry Houghtaling and Dominic Leonardo, has been going through daily workouts at Block Park in preparation for Friday's important game.

Houghtaling will start on the mound for St. Mary's. His recent pair of no-hit games stamp him as a standout prospect in this area. His battery mate will be Jack Redmond.

The rest of the St. Mary's lineup will find Alfred Wood, first; Bill Guldy, second; Frank Fischer, shortstop; and Charlie Diers, third base. Their outfield will have Richard Amato in left, Arnold Fischer, center and Jim Leonardo, right. Others on the squad include John Culjak, Dick DeCicco, Tom Heybruck, Dick Sweeney, Ted Feeney and Frank Horvers.

The stadium box office will be open at 6 o'clock Friday night.

MASTER'S TOUCH—Sam Snead watches as Ben Hogan practices putting at Fort Worth's Colonial Country Club. Hogan defends the United States Open championship at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich., June 14-16, when Snead once more will be the big threat. (NEA)

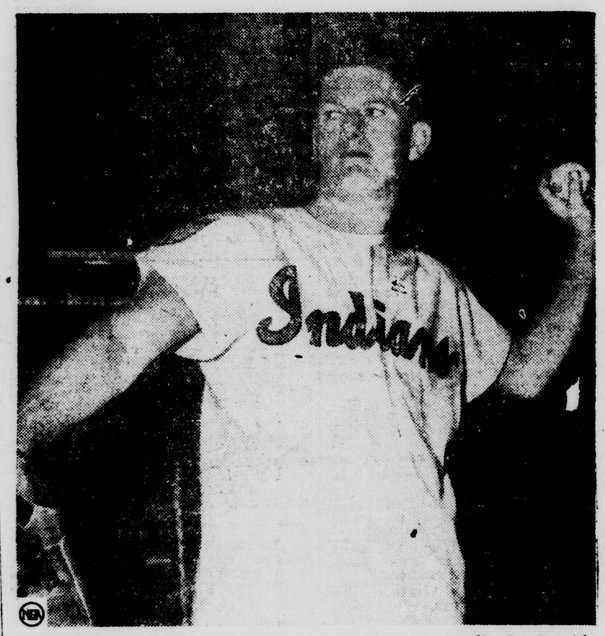
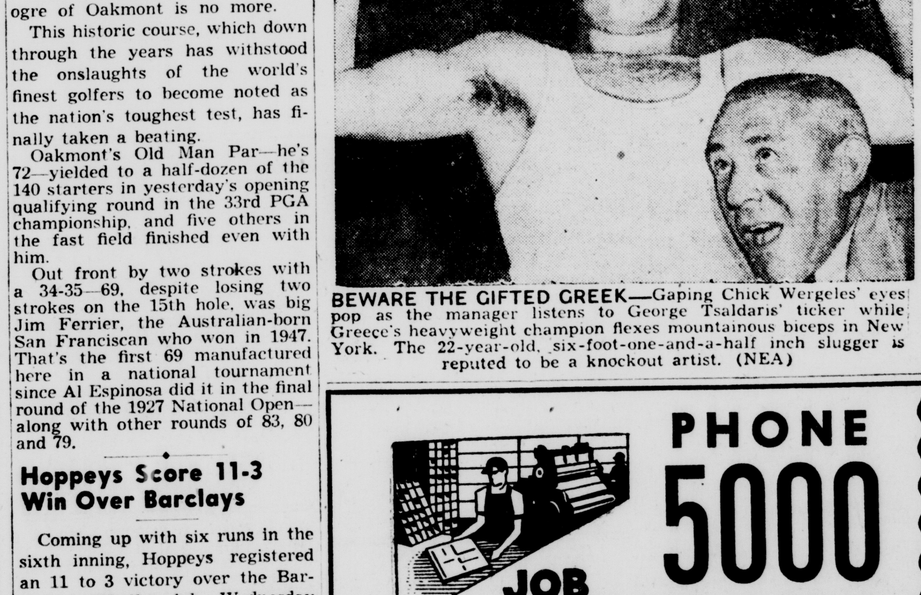
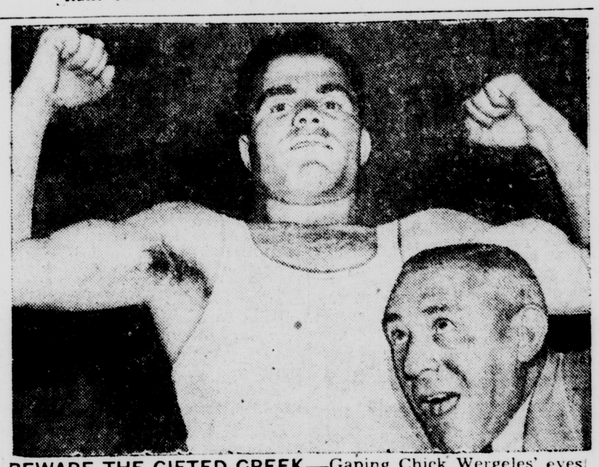
BIG FOUR—Gil Hodges, Andy Pafko, top inset, Duke Snider, bottom inset, and Jackie Robinson are excellent reasons why the Dodgers threaten to run away. Hodges leads the major leagues in home runs, with Pafko fighting to show the way to the second flight. Hodges and Snider are scrapping to top the National League's runs-batted-in column. Robinson is dueling with Stan Musial of the Cardinals for the batting championship. (NEA)



$100,000 WORTH—The Cleveland Indians paid Billy Joe Davidson more than $100,000 for signing a San Diego farm club contract. The 18-year-old southpaw of North Carolina's Oak Ridge Military Academy averaged 17½ strikeouts a game against semi-professional opposition. (NEA)



CLEAR HAVANA—Leading the American League in batting, hitting the dirt and playing right field and third base, Orestes Minoso has contributed much toward making the surprising White Sox pennant contenders. (NEA)



BEWARE THE GIFTED GREEK—Gaping Chick Wergeles' eyes pop as the manager listens to George Tsaldaris' ticker while Greece's heavyweight champion flexes mountainous biceps in New York. The 22-year-old, six-foot-one-and-a-half inch slugger is reputed to be a knockout artist. (NEA)

Shandaken Trips Old Caps, 6 to 5; Klosterman Stars

Shandaken notched its fourth win in seven starts this year by scoring a 6 to 5 squeaker over Old Capital Motors of Kingston Sunday.

The big hero of the game was Jack Klosterman, Shandaken hurler, who backed up his eight-hit pitching with some mighty work at the plate.

Klosterman unloaded a base-clearing double in the first to give Shandaken a 5-2 bulge and then in the seventh, with the score tied at 5-all. Klosterman spanked a single to drive in the deciding marker.

Old Caps, after tallying two in the first, pecked away at Klosterman for single runs in the third and fourth and knotted the score in the seventh. Then Klosterman took things in his own hands and won the game.

Manager L. Grant, Gossoo and the Klosterman brothers each collected two hits for the winners while Burris picked up two for the losers.

Robbins Holds Crown

Rye, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—Tom Robbins of Winged Foot, Mamaroneck, N. Y., today held the U. S. Seniors golf title because he didn't wilt under pressure. Robbins posted a 140 for the two-day affair that ended yesterday, but before he started his second round, his chief threat for top honors, Prescott Bush, finished with a 142. Robbins knew he would have to break par, which he did—a five-under 67, including birdies on the last three holes.

May Be Youngest Champ

Wimbledon, England, June 28 (AP) — Hamilton Richardson, a husky, taffy-blond youngster with a soft Louisiana drawl, has a chance of making Wimbledon tennis history by becoming the youngest player ever to win the men's championship. Richardson, the United States junior champion, is a 17-year-old Baton Rouge youngster with the weapons to make the grade—a steaming service, a flat forceful forehand and a silken-smooth backhand. And his smoothly executed 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4 triumph over defending champion Budge Patty of Los Angeles indicated he well might have reached his tennis majority. By dumping the amazed Patty, Hamilton carved a clear path past other seeded players until the quarter-finals Monday.

Ferrier Paces PGA On Qualifying 69

Oakmont, Pa., June 28 (AP)—The ogre of Oakmont is no more.

This historic course, which down through the years has withstood the onslaughts of the world's finest golfers to become noted as the nation's toughest test, has finally taken a beating.

Oakmont's Old Man Par—he's 72—yielded to a half-dozen of the 140 starters in yesterday's opening qualifying round in the 33rd PGA championship, and five others in the fast field finished even with him.

Out front by two strokes with a 34-35—69, despite losing two strokes on the 15th hole, was big Jim Ferrier, the Australian-born San Franciscan who won in 1947. That's the first 69 manufactured here in a national tournament since Al Espinosa did it in the final round of the 1927 National Open—along with other rounds of 83, 80 and 79.

Hoppeys Score 11-3 Win Over Barclays

Coming up with six runs in the sixth inning, Hoppeys registered an 11 to 3 victory over the Barclay softball club Wednesday night at the upper Hasbrouck Park diamond.

Eight Barclay errors helped Hoppeys to their win in a regular City Softball League fray.

Willie Wilson and Don MacCollam went the distance for the winners while Nick Savino and Dave Mandell formed the battery for Barclays.

Given a 5-0 lead, Wilson had a perfect game in his grasp until the fifth when he issued the first batter a walk. Barclays wound up by scoring two runs.

Shorty Morris paced the winners with three hits, two going for triples. Fielding gems were turned in by Wilson, Hoppeys and Goumas of the Barclays.

The score:

Hoppeys	101	036	0—11 8 0
Barclays	000	020	1— 3 5 8

May Be Youngest Champ

Wimbledon, England, June 28 (AP) — Hamilton Richardson, a husky, taffy-blond youngster with a soft Louisiana drawl, has a chance of making Wimbledon tennis history by becoming the youngest player ever to win the men's championship. Richardson, the United States junior champion, is a 17-year-old Baton Rouge youngster with the weapons to make the grade—a steaming service, a flat forceful forehand and a silken-smooth backhand. And his smoothly executed 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4 triumph over defending champion Budge Patty of Los Angeles indicated he well might have reached his tennis majority. By dumping the amazed Patty, Hamilton carved a clear path past other seeded players until the quarter-finals Monday.

Ferrier Paces PGA On Qualifying 69

Oakmont, Pa., June 28 (AP)—The ogre of Oakmont is no more.

This historic course, which down through the years has withstood the onslaughts of the world's finest golfers to become noted as the nation's toughest test, has finally taken a beating.

Oakmont's Old Man Par—he's 72—yielded to a half-dozen of the 140 starters in yesterday's opening qualifying round in the 33rd PGA championship, and five others in the fast field finished even with him.

Out front by two strokes with a 34-35—69, despite losing two strokes on the 15th hole, was big Jim Ferrier, the Australian-born San Franciscan who won in 1947. That's the first 69 manufactured here in a national tournament since Al Espinosa did it in the final round of the 1927 National Open—along with other rounds of 83, 80 and 79.

Hoppeys Score 11-3 Win Over Barclays

Coming up with six runs in the sixth inning, Hoppeys registered an 11 to 3 victory over the Barclay softball club Wednesday night at the upper Hasbrouck Park diamond.

Eight Barclay errors helped Hoppeys to their win in a regular City Softball League fray.

Willie Wilson and Don MacCollam went the distance for the winners while Nick Savino and Dave Mandell formed the battery for Barclays.

Given a 5-0 lead, Wilson had a perfect game in his grasp until the fifth when he issued the first batter a walk. Barclays wound up by scoring two runs.

Shorty Morris paced the winners with three hits, two going for triples. Fielding gems were turned in by Wilson, Hoppeys and Goumas of the Barclays.

The score:

Hoppeys	101	036	0—11 8 0
Barclays	000	020	1— 3 5 8

Will Get Wage Boost

Washington, June 28 (AP)—Some 20,000 long distance telephone operators and servicemen are going to get a 10 per cent wage boost, the CIO Communications Workers Union announced yesterday. The one-year agreement, covering American Telephone and Telegraph Company employes in 42 states and the District of Columbia, was signed in New York, the union said. A union spokesman added that about 1.6 per cent of the increase is subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board. The union said it grants basic wage increases ranging from $3 a week at starting rates in smaller towns to $9 a week in larger cities. Employes in 19 towns were reclassified upwards by an additional $1 to $3 a week.

Prisoner Mail Rules Given by Post Office

Washington, June 28 (AP)—The Post Office Department said today an ordinary envelope may be used for letters intended for prisoners of war in Korea or China.

A department spokesman said the government has no forms, but that letters may be sent in ordinary envelopes. There is no assurance of delivery, since letters must go through Communist hands.

Letters meant for prisoners should contain the man's name, rank, serial number and be addressed to: "Care of the Chinese People's Committee for World Peace, Peking, China." No stamp is needed, but the words "Prisoner of War Mail" should be written in the usual place for stamps. The letter may be mailed in the usual way.

Two Local Men Are Returning From Korea

Dewey Gets Scroll

Albany, N. Y., June 28 (AP)—A delegation of Sullivan county hotel men presented today to Governor Dewey a scroll expressing appreciation for the modernizing of Route 17. A $65,500,000 Middletown bypass will be opened officially tomorrow. It extends nine miles, from Goshen to Fair Oaks, and is the first major improvement toward converting Route 17 into a four-lane divided highway. The delegation said the bypass would save hours for vacation travelers.

Will Get Wage Boost

Washington, June 28 (AP)—Some 20,000 long distance telephone operators and servicemen are going to get a 10 per cent wage boost, the CIO Communications Workers Union announced yesterday. The one-year agreement, covering American Telephone and Telegraph Company employes in 42 states and the District of Columbia, was signed in New York, the union said. A union spokesman added that about 1.6 per cent of the increase is subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board. The union said it grants basic wage increases ranging from $3 a week at starting rates in smaller towns to $9 a week in larger cities. Employes in 19 towns were reclassified upwards by an additional $1 to $3 a week.
